Spurs Drive for Embargo Vote Tonight

WEARY SENATE CLEARS DECKS TO O.K. REPEAL

Drastic Gag Rule, Limiting Debate to 20 Minutes, to Speed Balloting.

CLAIM EASY VICTORY

Foes of Arms Sale Ban Count 65 Votes in Their Favor as Opponents Give Up.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The senate, approaching a vote on President Roosevelt's neutrality program, rejected by a vote of 26 to 65 today a proposal to ban armed merchant vessels of belligerent nation from United States ports and territorial waters.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Weary of its long neutrality debate, the senate placed a drastic limitation on speech-making today in a drive to act on arms embargo repeal by nightfall.

Although Democratic Leader Barkley failed to win agreement to take the final vote at 5 p. m. EST, opposition chieftains accepted his suggestion that no senator talk more than 20 minutes on any amendment. Earlier this week a 45-minute limit had been adopted.

Barkley conferred with administration lieutenants last night and reported afterward that more than 65 of the 96 senators would vote for the neutrality bill.

The foes conceded defeat, but said that their fight had not been in vain. They expressed hope that the senate debate had stiffened opposition forces in the house, which will consider the bill next week.

"I certainly think the fight has slowed up the war fever," said Senator Clark (D., Mo.). "We have won a great moral victory."

Clark, a leading opponent of repeal, asserted the senate debate had made it "absolutely clear" that European countries could not expect the United States to participate again in a European conflict.

See Position Stronger.

In this connection, administration senators contended that their position had been strengthened by President Roosevelt's declaration last night that the United States is neutral and does not intend to become involved in war.

Speaking from the White House by radio to the New York Herald Tribune forum, the president said that those who contend his foreign policy may land this nation into war are guilty of "one of the worst fakes in current history."

Although previously confident of their strength, administration leaders said that their expectations had been borne out by yesterday's test vote on an amendment to prevent repeal of the arms embargo.

The amendment, proposed by Senator Downey (D., Cal.) would have forbidden arms sales to all foreign nations except states in the American continents at war with non-American countries. The sales which Downey suggested are permitted under the present embargo act.

Barkley said that the 55-to-27 vote against the amendment "was a clear cut test of strength, but we will have even more votes when an effort is made to eliminate the section repealing the embargo."

Roosevelt Scores Dies For Baring 'Red List' of 500

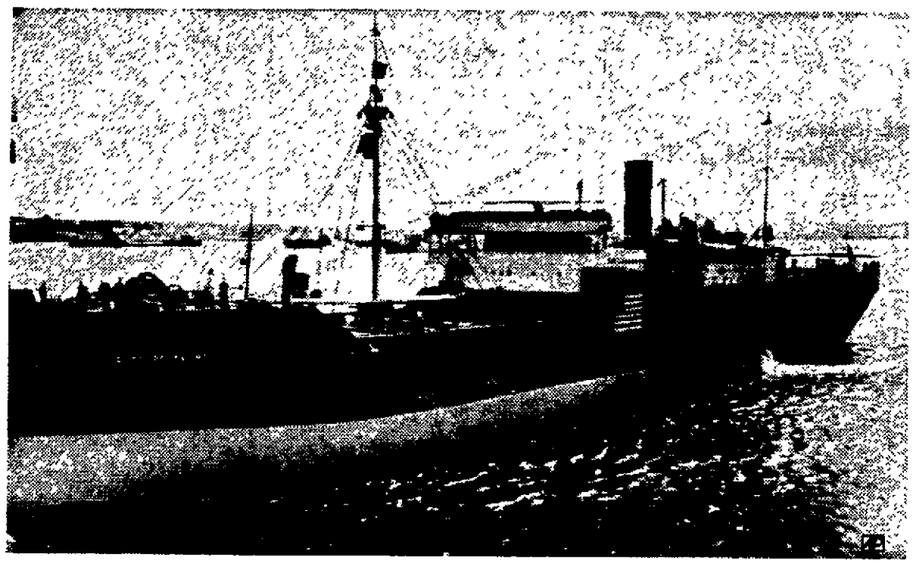
WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt branded as "sordid procedure" today publication by the Dies committee of the names of more than 500 government employes on the "membership and mailing list" of the American League for Peace and Democracy.

The committee charged that the league was a "front" for Communist activity.

Asked to comment on publication of the list this week, the president told a press conference he had not read enough of the details of that rather "sordid procedure to comment.

He agreed to a reporter's request that direct quotation of the phrase be permitted.

Nazi Crew Takes City Of Flint From Russia



The American government-owned steamer City of Flint today was in the hands of a German prize crew, sailing toward a German port following its capture in the Atlantic. Germans claimed Americans have no right to the ship or its cargo, claiming the vessel was loaded with contraband. The City of Flint is shown above as she reached Halifax on Sept. 13 with survivors of the British ship Athenia. Her captain, James A. Gainard, is shown at the right.

POPE ASSAILS DENIAL OF GOD

Condemns Governments Which Assume 'Autonomy Belonging to Supreme Maker.'

(By Associated Press)

CASTEL GANDOFLO — Pope Pius XII today condemned governments which assume "the absolute autonomy which belongs exclusively to the Supreme Maker" and offered consolation to dismembered Poland.

In the first encyclical of his reign the pontiff, after recounting the failure of his efforts for peace, also pleaded for settlements at the end of the present European war which would avoid the errors of past treaties which failed to bring lasting peace.

He blamed denial of "the authority of God and the sway of his law" for the rise of governments which make the state "the last end of life."

The war, he said, would fail to impose a decisive change in conditions—unless followed by treaties of peace "animated by justice and equity toward all."

He warned "there is danger lest settlements be born in such conditions" as "sacrifices and sufferings."

At the same time, he said, respect for treaties was indispensable to peace.

"As we write these lines," the pope said, "the terrible news comes to us that the dread tempest of

HIT-SKIP VICTIM

WPA Worker Struck by Auto as He Walks Along Road.

Struck by a hit-skip driver, Charles Robinson, 57, a Bellville WPA worker was in Mansfield General hospital today as the result of a fractured left elbow and body lacerations received last evening on Route 13, near the city limits.

Robinson was struck while walking south on the highway by a motorist traveling in the same direction, highway patrolmen said. He was found lying on the lawn of a home a short distance from the accident.

Witnesses said a black sedan hit Robinson. An investigation is to be conducted on information furnished by witnesses, Corp C. F. Strayer, said.

LAUGH AT SELF AND BE HAPPY

That's Advice of Elsa Maxwell If You Want Good Time.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—You be the joke, Elsa Maxwell advised today in telling Clevelanders how to have a good time.

"Tell jokes on yourselves and exaggerate them so that you will be not only invulnerable to the other people's laughs but can laugh at yourself with them," she said.

The widely-known party thrower also recommended more "belly laughs," observing:

"If Hitler had ever laughed, even in his sleep, Europe would not be in such straits."

REPEALS ADVERTISING BAN

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The board of liquor control yesterday repealed a regulation adopted Aug. 22 prohibiting manufacturers and distributors from purchasing for teams or "advertising in any way on athletic uniforms or equipment."

Locke Defends Traffic Plan; Hunter Stresses Experience

Insists Something Can Be Done About Problem In Firing Back at Baer.

"If we think a thing is impossible before we start it, then there's not much hope of achieving it," William J. Locke, Republican candidate for mayor, said last night at a Third ward rally in defense of his program for the city. He spoke at the West Fifth street school.

Locke's statement was a reply to G. A. Baer, Democratic campaign manager, who said yesterday that Locke's promise to try to solve the city's traffic problem was "ridiculous, because he nor anyone else can solve the problem."

Contending that "something could and would be done" about the traffic situation if he is elected, Locke said he had promised to do everything possible to solve it and had not pledged himself to solve the problem.

"I was misquoted by some one who may have been hard up for something to talk about," he said.

Atty. John Catlett, who presided at last night's rally, described Locke's work with the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. and his active interest in community affairs as "good training for a mayor."

He pointed out that Locke worked as an engineer during his college years and later was a

Campaigning for re-election on his record of 21 months in office, Mayor Claude M. Hunter last night called upon colored voters to "keep the management of your city government in competent hands."

Addressing a crowd at the Mt. Calvary Baptist hall on North Main street, Hunter urged support for the entire Democratic ticket, pointing out that it represented "men of experience in handling the affairs of your city."

He again stressed the need for a continuation of "frugal management in municipal affairs by keep-

YOU OWE $315

Public Debt Hits 41 Billions, Nearly Doubled Since '33.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The public debt crossed the forty one billion dollar mark today—$315 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Treasury department figures revealed that the debt totals $41,023,872,434, nearly double its size when the present administration came into power in 1933.

A year ago the debt aggregated $38,424,932,579. The 12 month increase, totalling $2,598,739,855, comprised chiefly transfers to trust accounts by the treasury rather than new financing.

The per capita public debt compared with $12 in 1917, a few months before this country entered the World war.

BOLSTERS ARMY

Britain Summons Volunteers First Time Since War Started.

LONDON—(AP)—Great Britain, grimly tuning her war machinery for winter campaign against Germany at sea and at home, opened her lists today for volunteers in the first general call since the war began Sept. 3.

Enlistments only of specialized classes have been asked previously. Age limits were set at 22 to 35 in Great Britain and 20 to 35 in Northern Ireland. Those accepted will be ordered to report Nov. 15.

DELUGE FLOODS CITY STREETS

Downpour Chokes Sewers and More's on Way But It'll Be Fair Tomorrow.

And still it rains! Mansfield was getting a real downpour today after three days of heavy showers. The weatherman promised more rain for tonight with skies clearing in time for football fans tomorrow.

The dripping skies brought higher temperatures again today with the high point hovering around 70. The low temperature for the past 24 hours was 62 with an average figure of 66.

The heavy rains which sent all pedestrians scurrying to shelter for a time today seriously hampered traffic. The rainfalls gave the city considerably more than an inch of rain in the 12 hours preceding the noon shower which was the heaviest of all.

At the height of today's storm, hilly streets were completely awash with swiftly running water from curb to curb. Sidewalks in many places were several inches under and pools on corners were wide enough to defy the most athletic of broad-jumping pedestrians.

Overloaded sewers seemed to have no appreciable effect on the swirling accumulation.

Other cities in Ohio were having a similar deluge. Cleveland reported overcast skies had dropped heavy rains in the past two days and severe electrical storms swept the lake front. Columbus said two inches of rain washed over the streets in a 24 hour period.

The end of the high temperatures was seen for Mansfield tomorrow with the mercury sinking back to the more normal average of about 47 degrees.

RUBY GOES ON WITH DIVORCE

She'll Get $400 Weekly For Life, Cusody of Adopted Son.

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— Ruby Keeler announced through her lawyer today that she would sue Al Jolson for divorce within "a few weeks." She will charge extreme cruelty.

A property settlement was signed last night, according to Attorney John C. McHose, her counsel. Under its terms, he said, Jolson will pay her $400 a week for life. The sum of $100,000 will be put in trust for their adopted son, Al (Sonny Boy) Jolson, aged 4. Miss Keeler will have custody of the boy.

CRUISER HITS SNAG, ARRIVAL HERE DELAYED

Antarctic Behemoth, Due in City Today, Not Expected Now Until Tomorrow.

HELD UP BY NARROW SPAN

Machine Built for Icy Wastes Clogs Highway, Causes Traffic Jams.

Admiral Byrd's moster Antarctic snow cruiser, which was designed to travel the dangerous, icy wastes of the South Polar regions with ease, ran into a variety of troubles yesterday on Indiana highways and is not expected to reach Mansfield until Saturday.

The huge machine had been scheduled to arrive here late today and spend the night here, going on to Ashland Saturday. It appeared unlikely, however, that it could keep up with the schedule outlined before the trip started.

All that Dr. Thomas C. Poulter of Armour Institute of Technology Research Foundation would predict as he left Warsaw, Ind., this morning was the machine would spend the night "some place in Ohio."

Huge crowds of sight-seers, traffic jams, and a narrow bridge impeded the cruiser's progress yesterday and it got only to Warsaw, 45 miles short of its scheduled over-night stop at Ft. Wayne.

See 2-Week Trip Now.

It was due to stop briefly at Ft. Wayne this morning and then enter Ohio over route 30. The trip from Chicago to Boston was originally set up for eight days, but indications today were that it would take two weeks.

The 27-ton cruiser, which is 55 feet long and 20 feet wide, ran into a number of obstacles be-

GETS B. I. S. OFFER

Hayes, Orphans' Home Head, Given Promotion Chance.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood announced today that the position of superintendent of the Boys Industrial school at Lancaster had been offered to Capt. Harold L. Hayes, who is now superintendent of the Ohio Soldiers & Sailors Orphans' home at Xenia.

Hayes will discuss the offer with trustees of the Xenia home in Columbus on Saturday, Nov. 4. It was understood that he would accept the new offer if his release could be obtained from the trustees.

The position at the Xenia home pays $3,500 a year and maintainance and at the industrial school $3,600 a year and maintainance.

Hayes, if he accepts, will succeed A. R. Harsh, who resigned as B. I. S. superintendent last summer.

RECOVERS BODIES

British Say They Found 50 Bodies in Sunken German Sub.

DOVER, ENGLAND—(AP)— Between 50 and 60 bodies were reported today to have been found by British divers exploring a shattered German submarine washed up yesterday on the Goodwin sands.

The Goodwin sands are more than five miles out from the Kent coast, forming a natural breakwater to the Downs Roadstead. Heavy firing was heard off the coast Wednesday.

American Claim To Boat, Cargo Void, Nazis Say

Declare City Of Flint, Manned By Prize Crew, Steams Toward German Port; U. S. Seamen Free To Leave, Berlin Says; Washington Maps Protest.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—The American steamship City of Flint is en route to a German port, the name of which is being kept secret, authorized German quarters said today.

It was confirmed that the City of Flint sailed yesterday from Murmansk.

The future status of the vessel and its cargo depends entirely on a verdict by the German prize court at Hamburg, it was stated officially.

German quarters still were unable to say with certainty where the City of Flint's American seamen are but it was reported that they may have left the ship at Tromsoe, Norwegian port to which the City of Flint first was taken after it was seized by the Germans.

In any case, authorized quarters said, American members of the City of Flint's crew are not being held and are free to leave the ship any time they wish.

This statement served only to deepen the mystery regarding the whereabouts of the crew.

It was established that the American embassy here had taken no further steps regarding the City of Flint today.

Nazis, meanwhile, sought to show that the ship and its cargo now belonged to Germany and that the United States had no further title to it.

Diplomatic quarters awaited a United States protest against the course of the Nazis in sending the ship to the supposedly neutral port of Murmansk, Russia, and then with official Russian permission, taking it away.

Nazi Crew In Charge.

(The German official wireless, in a radiocast intercepted at New York last night, made the unqualified assertion under a Moscow date line that the City of Flint had left Murmansk in charge of a German prize crew. This radiocast added: "It was officially announced that the steamer, which arived at Murmansk Oct. 23 . . . had to call at Murmansk owing to an engine defect. . . . The release of the steamer and of the crew from internment was ordered Oct. 24 in accordance with the stipulations of The Hague naval convention of 1909 after authorities had established that it carried contraband.)

Doors Closed to U. S. Envoy, Report.

MOSCOW—(AP)—It was reliably learned today that United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt had been unsuccessful in repeated attempts to gain an appointment at the foreign office in his quest for information on the United States-owned steamer City of Flint.

The ambassador went to the foreign office last night but failed to see any high official and his efforts still were unavailing up to 1 p. m. (5 a. m., EST) today.

The embassy had no information beyond that appearing in soviet Russian newspapers—that the American freighter had been freed at the port of Murmansk where she had been taken, the captive of a German prize crew.

The embassy spent two days

FRONT: French Say Germans Move Into Attacking Positions

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—The Germans have moved tanks and rapid-fire artillery into attacking positions on the Siegfried line, French military observers reported today.

French patrol reports indicated that the Germans facing the Maginot fortifications were in "jumpoff" spots all along the northern flank, but an intense cold snap proved an ally of the French, who said they were all set for a German offensive.

The council of ministers, meeting with President Albert Lebrun in Elysee palace, approved ratification of the French-British-Turkish mutual assistance accord signed Oct. 19 in Ankara.

Premier Daladier gave the ministers a long review of the war and the diplomatic situation.

Two decrees submitted by Agricultural Minister Henri Queuille were signed, providing for the purchase and storage by the government of agricultural surpluses.

The cold and flooded regions in some parts of the front caused French observers to doubt that a German drive would be immediate, but they said they expected it as soon as a rift in the weather appeared.

Reconnoitering units skirmished in snow, sleet and icy rain along the 100-mile northern flank last night, getting some artillery support as they wallowed in the ice-crusted mud.

The French morning communique said that during the night there was "local activitity of reconnaisance units."

The sudden rigid control of German communications with Belgium and the Netherlands also led the French to suspect that a big German push was imminent.

The French have estimated that Germany now has 1,500,000 men either in front-line or supporting positions.

RAIDS: British Wait Mass Attacks By German Bombers

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Acting on information that large-scale German air raids—involving mass attacks of 1,000 or more planes—must be expected at any time on southeastern Scotland and northeastern England, home defense chiefs have taken thorough steps to meet and frustrate the assaults, it was learned today.

Secret plans also have been perfected to combat the raiding menace of the two German pocket battleships now known to be ranging the high seas—the Deutschland, reputed captor of the American freighter City of Flint, and the Admiral von Scheer, at present dodging British pursuers somewhere off the South American coast.

Information obtained from German aviators taken prisoner after the recent raids on Britain proved that all past appearances of German aircraft on the Scottish and English coasts were mainly for the purpose of reconnaissance.

Through statements of prisoners it has been shown that approximately fourteen German aerial squadrons at various times conducted observation expeditions along the coastline.

Some photographs and notes have been found on the captured aviators.

The German airmen admitted under questioning that all their past activity has been a prelude to a major raid, probably during the daytime, in which great numbers of planes, variously estimated at upwards of 1,000, may be employed.

WIFE REPAIRS MATE'S RACING MOTOR BIKES

Mrs. Ray Grant of West Coast Argues Women Make Best Mechanics.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (U.P.) — After six years in the business of racing and repairing motorcycles, Mrs. Ray Grant is convinced that a woman is a better automotive mechanic than a man.

Taking care of the delicate racing machines used in motorcycle racing comes naturally for Mrs. Grant for she is the wife of one of the leading riders. She was Bessie Mossman before she married Grant and has traveled the world with her famous brother, Putt Mossman, the trick horseshoe tosser and stunt rider.

Mrs. Grant has four motors under her supervision now and tears them down after each night's racing. They are of English make and require close care.

Set Record In Australia.

During her nine years as Grant's wife, she has set some outstanding records for herself. While racing in Australia, she clipped one-fifth of a second from the previous record for women on a flat motorcycle track. She also has driven a midget auto for the fastest time made by a woman. In the horshoe line, she holds the ringer record for women with 28 straight, made at the Iowa state fair in 1935.

Mrs. Grant confided she gets a great thrill from overhauling motorcycle motors. She insist a woman is better than a man because her sense of touch is finer and more sensitive, therefore she can do better precision work.

"A woman will not take a chance on parts as will a man," Mrs. Grant added. "If I listened to men I would use parts two or three times that I will only stand for once. They try to cut corners and save money in the wrong places. Racing motors are for speed and you cannot get speed by skimping.

Finds Work Fascinating.

"I learned to be careful in Australia when my husband was hurt and I had to keep our two motor bikes working. I found it to be the most fascinating work I ever had run into. I can do anything that is needed, for we overhaul every bike after each race. Most times we have to tear every motor completely apart.

"They are English made racers and since this war scare in England the parts are not good. They are softer because the steel is poorer. Their best goes into war material. That means more work. The spark plugs cost $5 each and you have to treat them as you would a baby. So I do not permit any man to help me."

Asked where her brother was now, Mrs. Grant said Mossman was exploring the Belgian Congo on a motorcycle.

FISHING LIBERTY DENIED INDIANS

Privilege Held Illegal as Judge Says Treaty Imposed On State

YAKIMA, Wash.—(U.P.)—A recent ruling by Federal Judge J. Stanley Webster of Spokane denied Indians of the Yakima, Umatilla and Warm Springs tribes the privilege of fishing without restriction "as long as grass grows and water flows in the land of the setting sun."

A treaty signed at an historic meeting at Fort Walla Walla in 1855 was to have guaranteed the Indians this right, but Judge Webster held the treaty imposed on the sovereignty of the state and that the state could require $5 license fees from Indians fishing off their reservations.

The ruling came in a test case between the state and Sampson Tulee, a ward of the U. S. government. The court sustained a demurrer entered by the state to the government's petition for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of Tulee, who was arrested for fishing without a license.

Attorneys for the state declared it was not attempting to rob the Indians of fishing for food any time and any place they wished, but that the intention was to control sale of their catches to commercial white fishermen, who were evading the state's conservation program.

HELPS SKATERS

City Takes Over Old Plant For Roller Enthusiasts.

SYDNEY, N. S. — (U.P.) — The towns of Sydney and Truro have officially recognized the sport of roller-skating.

The Sydney town council, seeking to keep children from the streets, voted to take over the concrete floor of a large, unused fertilizer plant, install lights and convert it into a roller-skating playground. Admission is free.

The Truro council blocked off two streets to motor traffic and placed it at the disposal of skaters. At the same time, they voted to prosecute skaters who endangered their lives on the town's concrete highways.

EATS UP MILES

Engineer Travels Distance Equal to Four Moon Trips.

BELLEVUE—(U.P.)—James Furlong, dean of Nickel Plate railroad engineers, retired after nearly 51 years of service during which friends figured he had traveled a distance equal to four round trips to the moon.

Furlong estimates his total mileage at 2,000,000 miles. The mean distance to the moon is 238,857 miles. On the basis, he has traveled on rails a distance equal to more than four trips to the moon and back.

French Villages Of O and Y Live In Unique Brevity

PARIS—(U.P.)—The villages of O in the Orne department of France and Y in the Somme claim the world record for brevity of names.

O is a village grouped around a castle whose original owner was at one time minister of finance Several of his descendants are still living in Normandy.

Y has only 121 inhabitants Many travelers, upon seeing the name at the entrance of the village, (every French village has a sign-board announcing its name), take it merely to be a sign of a bifurcation of the highroad. However, Y did not always possess so short a name In documents date 1126 A. D. it was called Hil. Once in 1166, it was called I. In 1215 it was back to Hay and Hy. Its present name dates from 1584

Almost 20 communes in France have only two letters For example, there is SY in the Ardenes Fa in the Lands region By in the Doubs department, and Bu in Eure et Loir. OO is located in the Haute Garonne department, Oz in the Isere, Ay (famed for its champagne) in the Marne region, and Re in the Orne Still others Hy (Hautes Pyrenees), Py and Us (Pyrenees Orientales) Gy (Haute Saone), Eu (Seine Inferieure), Ry and Us, in the Seine et Oise department.

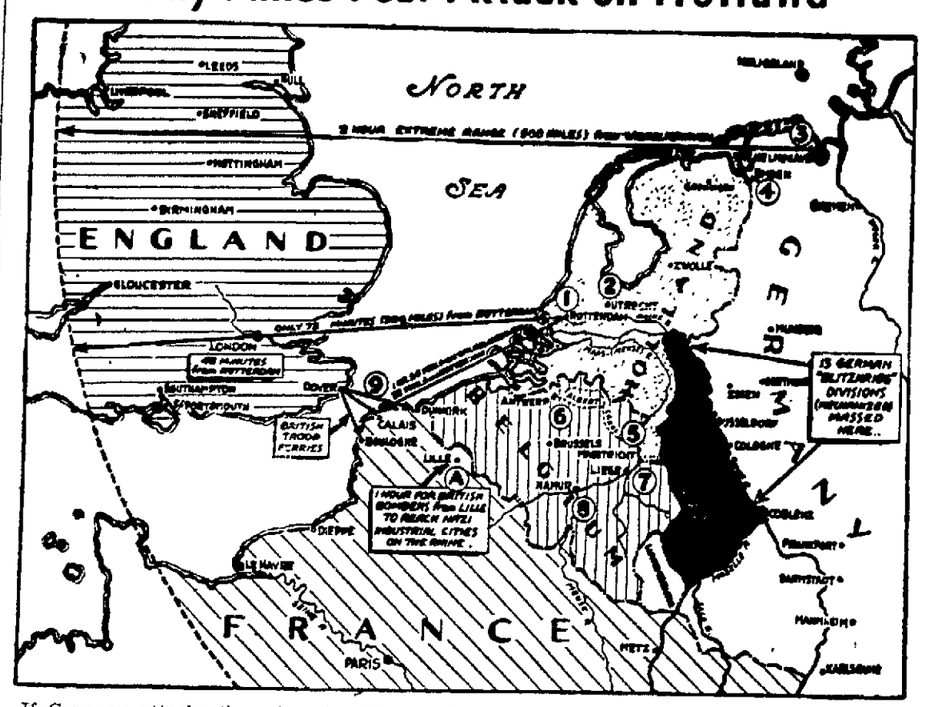
Why Allies Fear Attack on Holland



If Germany attacks through Holland, her main objective will be Rotterdam (1), Western Europe's greatest airport, which the Nazis would make a jumping-off place for raids on England. Germany's present bases at Wilhelmshaven (3) and Emden (4) are almost double the air distance from England's industrial centers. First move would be capture of Utrecht (2), center of Holland's flood control system. Holland captured, Belgium would be next, observers believe. The Albert Canal (5 and 6) would offer a major barrier, and the Belgian forts at Liege (7) and Namur (8) would attempt to hold up the invader pending Allied reinforcements. Britain's vital cross-channel routes are at (9), and Lille (A) is Britain's air base in France

IF RATTLER TAKES S SHAPE, LOOK OUT, WARNS VET HUNTER

McGREGOR, Ia.—(U.P.)—Seven years of hunting snakes during which he has caught as many as 100 a day, have taught Larry Kersten of McGregor that most popular beliefs about rattlesnakes are fallacies.

One such notion blasted by Kersten is that a rattler's age can be told by the number of buttons on the rattle

The truth is, according to the reptile hunter, that rattlers grow a button every time they shed their skins and that is two or three times a year. Moreover, the buttons sometimes are lost

Kersten just laughs at the belief that a rattler won't strike unless coiled.

"The fact is," he said, "the snake assumes the shape of a letter S, then straightens out when it strikes."

Kersten began hunting snakes after an itinerant catcher who makes a profession of taking rattlesnakes alive for zoos, gave him a few pointers

Early in the spring, preferably the first warm day, Kersten takes to the hills with a gunny sack, heavy gloves and a pair of homemade tongs He looks particularly for rock ledges or crevices, for it is there that the snakes come out to lie in the sun.

Spotting a basking snake, or sometimes an entire family, he moves cautiously ahead With the tongs he seizes a rattler just back of the head, snips out the poisonous fangs while it threshes madly about and maneuvers it into the sack

"The snakes won't bite through the sack because they are all tangled up and confused," Kersten explained.

He often keeps them on his farm for weeks before turning them in for bounty. He has collected as much as $700 a year in this manner.

In captivity the snakes refuse to eat, sometimes existing for four or five months without food

Kersten kept no record of how many snakes he has captured, but estimates the number to be in the thousands

BUCYRUS—In a resolution adopted by Bucyrus Aerie No 510 Eagles, Wednesday night, Governor John W. Bricker is urged to call a special session of the general assembly with a view of amending the pension law of Ohio.

NATURE TRICKS

MOBILE, Ala.—(U.P.)—Unusually warm fall weather has caused pear trees here to bloom. Mrs H B. Wharton said the tree in her back yard had more blooms now than it did last spring, and an orchard on Moffett Road put out thousands of blossoms.

FAMILY KEEPS HISTORIC NEWS

Canadian Owns Copy of Paper Announcing Refusal to Seek Third Term.

WINNIPEG, Man.—(U.P.)—How slowly news traveled in the 18th century is revealed by a copy of the London Times, dated Nov. 6, 1796, in the possession of George Nunnery of Winnipeg. The newspaper recently was received from England where it had been in the possession of his mother's family.

Leader for the day was a story about the now famous announcement of George Washington that he would not run for a third term of president.

"We are sorry to announce the resignation of George Washington, Esq., of his situation of President of the United States of America," reads the story. "This event was made known yesterday with the arrival of the Belvidere from New York with letters thence of the 27th of September."

Advertisements on the front page were of interest. Under the heading "Extraordinary Large Reptile," attention is drawn to the fact that a rattlesnake 9 feet long and a foot in diameter was being shown.

"The nobility and gentry are informed that the snake is so well secured that there is not the slightest danger, and that he may be inspected with the greatest pleasure," the ad said.

RUBBER HEELS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — (U.P.) — Beat patrolmen assumed a new role by pounding the pavements equipped with special rubber heels in an effort to aid industrial research. Their reports have been submitted to a rubber company which furnished the heels.

SNAKE INVASION

BONAPARTE, Ia. — (U.P.) — A modern-day counterpart of St. Patrick would be welcome in this community. So prevalent have snakes become that farmers have taken to carrying clubs to defend themselves against the reptiles as they go about their field work.

ASKS $15,000 FOR INJURIES

Shelby Woman Files Suit Against Owner of Apartment.

A fall down the stairway in the basement of a Shelby apartment last October was the basis of a $15,000 personal damage suit which had been filed today in common pleas court by Mrs. Alice Gore of Shelby.

The action is against George W. Hoffman, Shelby, owner of the apartment, who, Mrs. Gore contends, removed a light bulb from over the basement stairway, making the stairway dark and causing her to fall.

She received injuries to her right arm, left hip, and head and suffered severe shock, her petition states. She is represented by Attys. R. M. Rust and C. F. Creedman, Mansfield.

Langhurst Doubtful Starter Saturday

By HENRY McLEMORE

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Booked as a "breather" by Ohio State two years ago to give its men a rest between the Minnesota and Indiana games, Cornell's big Red football team came into town today ready to give the Buckeyes the battle of their lives.

Ohio State hopes took a small nose dive today when Fullback Jimmy Langhurst was listed as a doubtful started tomorrow because of a bruised heel injured in the Minnesota game last week.

His place in the opening combination probably will be taken by Johnny Rabb, Akron veteran, with Johnny Hallabrin, fast-developing sophomore from Mansfield, certain to see lots of service.

Cornell Arrives For Game

Big Red Eleven to Hold Drill In Ohio Stadium Today; 60,000 to See Tilt.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Fearful of Ohio State's vaunted power, Cornell university's Big Red football team arrived in Columbus at 5 a. m. today for Saturday's intersectional tilt against the Bucks. It will be the first meeting between the two undefeated elevens.

Led by Hal McCullough, shifty 166-pound halfback who has been the leading ground gainer thus far, the boys from Lake Cayuga disembarked to go to a downtown hotel before journeying to Ohio stadium for a brisk workout.

Meanwhile, sports writers from coast to coast arrived in town for the "game of the day" as did top ranking radio sportcasters who will air the struggle over two national networks. If the weather is clear, the crowd was expected to approximate 60,000 — the third successive home game the Scarlet and Gray lads have performed before more than 55,000 fans.

Cast once again in the national spotlight, the Bucks were confident they could duplicate last Saturday's sparkling showing against Minnesota and bombard into oblivion the cream of the east's so-called Ivy league. Heavier and tested in stern competition, Ohio had the betting on its side by as high as 2 to 1 margins—in Columbus anyway.

Many fans believed the Scarlet and Gray would conquer the eastern representatives by a one-sided margin. More astute observers, while picking Francis Schmidt's lads to win, believed the game would be hard fought with not more than a touchdown separating the two elevens.

RAMS LOSE RODAK

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A fractured arm cost the Cleveland Rams the services today of promising Mike Rodak, Western Reserve graduate who has distinguished himself as a pass receiver in his freshman pro football year. He was injured yesterday while scrimmaging.

Hamilton Adds 23 Points As Bluejays Rip Ashley

Bellville Star Runs Total to 118 Points, Leads Teammates to 65 to 0 Victory.

By CHARLES MARTIN

WILL Co-captain Howard "Tick" Hamilton be able to win the state scoring race?

What will happen when the undefeated and untied Bellville high juggernaut invades Madison field next week to battle the Rams?

Those two questions are practically the only thoughts racing through the minds of the population in the neighboring city today.

That Coach Royd Hodge's powerful combine ran roughshod over an undermanned Ashley high eleven, 65 to 0, for its seventh consecutive triumph in Bellville yesterday before some 400 fans has, apparently, been forgotten.

Hamilton, the Bluejays' ace ball packer on those tricky single and double reverses, tallied three touchdowns and five extra points to boost his season's total to 118 points. Previously he had been tied with Bob Frye of Crestline at 95 for the state's scoring lead.

The Bluejays, employing three complete teams, didn't encounter any trouble from the invading Ashley team. Only once, in the opening period, did the outclassed rivals have possession of the pigskin inside Bellville's 30-yard stripe.

Mentor Hodge's aggregation smashed over at least two touchdowns in every period to hand Ashley its worst defeat of the season. It was, incidentally, the biggest score piled up by Bellville this year.

Ashley, on the defense most of the time, watched the crack Bluejay backs break loose on touchdown jaunts from nearly any point on the greensward. George Dill turned in the longest sprint of the afternoon when he galloped 55 yards on a return of a pass interception.

Bellville started the ball rolling on its second play of the one-sided setto. The Bluejays caught Ashley napping on a huddle play. The players lined near the scrimmage line and Center Don Minnie shot the ball to Hamilton, who, behind perfect interference, ran 46 yards into pay dirt.

And from there on it was a question of how many points Bellville would pile up.

A highlight of the contest was the spectacular play pulled by Don Palm, Co-captain Bill Martin and Hamilton, when the latter scored his second touchdown near the end of the half. Palm tossed a short basketball pass to Martin, who lateraled to Hamilton as soon as he touched the ball. Hamilton went 45 yards down the sidelines.

The blocking provided by the guards, Arthur Ruhl and Charles Kauf, and Martin was an important factor in enabling the backs to run wild.

Richard Keiser trailed Hamilton in the scoring column with a pair of markers, while Ruhl, Clinton Dill, McClurg and George Dill added the other touchdowns.

Quick thinking by Ruhl enabled him to recover a blocked punt in the end zone. Martin blocked Delbert Ashbrook's attempted punt and after it rolled into the end zone several players scrambled for the ball. Ruhl knived through two Ashley players to fall on it.

Hamilton secured four of his extra points from perfect placements and the other on a reverse. He also scored another touchdown from the Ashley 28, but an offside penalty nullified the score. Bellville was penalized 65 yards. The Bluejays lost two other touchdowns from penalties.

Ashley made one first down against the Bellville seconds, while the Bluejays were marking up 13. Ashley had only 13 men available for the game and two of them were helped off the field because of injuries.

Two Long Sprints Beat Butler, 13 to 6.

BUTLER—Coach Bob Burgett's Butler high Bulldogs may not win any games this fall, but the way in which an untried eleven functioned here yesterday as it dropped a 13 to 6 verdict to Hebron was not disheartening to him.

With six defeats already in the books, Burgett revamped his lineup for yesterday's setto and sent practically the entire team that will represent the school in 1940 on the gridiron.

Butler outplayed the invaders, but two long touchdown sprints by Bratton, 185-pound halfback spelled defeat for the inexperienced Bulldogs.

The Hebron back ran 50 yards around his right end in the first period to spot his teammates to a 6-0 advantage and then in the second quarter ran 40 yards on a reverse. Yontz plunged for the point to give Hebron a 13 to 0 lead.

Butler, however, refused to give the winners any rest. Shortly before the half the Bulldogs marched 55 yards for its lone score. Capt Bob Arnold, who with Jack Wilson were the only seniors in the lineup, climaxed the drive by bucking over from the five.

In the closing minutes of the contest it looked like Butler might tie the score. The Bulldogs reached the Hebron two-yard stripe on fourth down. Grubb dropped a pass in the end zone to end the threat. It happened seconds before the game ended.

Burgett discovered a new pass receiver in Clark Stahl. He started at an end post for the Bulldogs and caught seven of eight passes Wilson fired at him. The Butler defense, outside of the two times Hebron scored, turned back every threat. Hebron never drove inside the Butler 40 after the intermission. The Bulldogs chalked up 14 first downs to 10 for Hebron.

Danville Topples Mt. Gilead Eleven.

DANVILLE—A smashing Blue Devil line gave Danville a 19 to 7 victory over an outplayed Mt. Gilead high grid combine here yesterday afternoon.

The first Danville tally came midway in the first frame after advancing the ball from midfield to the one foot line from which Mizer plunged over for the score. The pass for point was incomplete. Although Mt. Gilead retained possession of the ball most of the second period they failed to march deeper than the 24 into Danville territory.

The Gilead Indians placed the ball on the Danville two yard marker early in the third period from which Tennett plunged through center for the lone Indian tally. Tennett's off-tackle thrust for the point was good giving Mt. Gilead a one point lead over the Danville team.

Coming back with an air attack in the closing minutes of the third stanza the Blue Devils placed the ball on the Indian 25 yard stripe from which Senft tossed into the end zone to Miller to mark the tally. A pass for point was complete and Danville went into a lead it never relinquished.

The next Blue Devil tally came in the opening minutes of the fourth frame when Senft again took to the air to throw a pass to McMillan in the end zone. A line play for the point failed. No serious scoring threats was registered in the final frame as Danville remained in possession of the ball keeping the play in midfield.

WILLARD, BELLEVUE FIGHT TO SCORELESS DEADLOCK

WILLARD—Willard high battled Bellevue to a scoreless tie in the two schools' annual grid battle here last night.

Coach David Query's Willard club held command of the game most of the way, but was unable to stage any serious scoring threats. Whisler of Willard carried the brunt of his team's attack. He handled the punting, passing and ball carrying assignments.

Title on Block In Shelby Game

The N. C. O. conference championship will probably be decided at Skiles field in Shelby Saturday afternoon.

Saturday's all-important conference game will pit the fast-stepping Marion Presidents against the Shelby Whippets, first and second place teams, respectively.

Marion is undefeated in the conference and Shelby's only defeat was administered by Ashland by a one point margin.

Galion Rally Beats Redmen

Pass in Fourth Period Gives Orangemen 13-7 Win.

BUCYRUS—An estimated crowd of 2,500 watched Galion highs' Orangemen cop the 1939 edition of a twenty year rivalry with Bucyrus by the score of 13 to 7 here last night.

The Bucs drew first blood after a fumble which they recovered on their own 29. Slashing from tackle thrusts to end runs, they placed the ball on the Orangemens' 18 yard stripe from where Adams plunged off-tackle for the score. Gebhardts' placement for the point split the uprights, giving Bucyrus a 7 to 0 lead.

Recovering a blocked punt on their own 35, the Orangemen retained the ball through the closing minutes of the first stanza and midway in the second frame Durtschi skirted the left side of line into the end zone for the first Galion score. Durtschi then placekicked the point.

The Galion squad took the air for its second and last score of the game in the fourth period when a lateral and forward from Crim to Eichler to Durtschi placed the pigskin on the Bucyrus 27. Dewalt then passed to Durtschi on the 17 yard marker from where Durtschi tossed flat pass into the end zone to a substitute Galion end, Cahill, for the tally. Durtschi's try for point from placement was wide.

Ivy Leaguers Meet Big Ten Powers.

Scoring Battle Looms Saturday

Jacinski, Brickles May Cause Mansfield Trouble In Stadium Field Game.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

HIGHLY inspired by their 9 to 0 conquest of Sandusky in their last game, Mansfield high school's Tygers applied the finishing touches to a hard week of work on the practice field today in a confident mood.

Saturday at 2:30 p. m., the bengal forces will attempt to settle an old score with the Akron Kenmore Cardinals at Stadium field, and it will probably take a great visiting team to cool the Tygers.

Beaten 33 to 6 last year by the Lloyd Miller-paced Cardinals, Coach Paul Snyder's Tygers appear strong enough to gain the revenge they seek, but, the Kenmores cannot be underestimated, despite their poor record.

When the Cardinals roar into the Tygers' lair Saturday they will be without Miller, but they boast of a fine successor in Steve Jacinski, said by Mentor Snyder to be one of the "finest passers in Ohio high school football."

The Akronites have another fine pigskin packer in Bill Brickles, who can also throw.

Strong offensively, the Cardinals do not rate as well on the defense.

Unless the Tygers hold Jacinski and Brickles in tow, the ball game may develop into an offensive battle, with the heavy end of the Mansfield ball carrying burden being shouldered by Howard Hershey and Martin Henke and the passing by Dave Templeton.

Idle last Saturday, the Tygers will be in the well-known "pink" for the fray, and thoughts of the 1938 defeat will erase the possibility of over-confidence.

Coach Snyder intends to use the same lineup he employed in the Sandusky game.

"I'd be crazy to change the lineup that produced the best performance of the season, wouldn't I?" Snyder asked.

A preliminary game between picked teams of the Simpson junior high school squad will be staged at 1 p. m.

Sophomores Rout Canton Gridders

The Mansfield high Sophomores registered their sixth victory of the season yesterday when they defeated the Canton Junior high eleven, 37 to 7, in Canton. The junior Tygers dominated the game throughout.

Adam Brandt and Jim Templeton led the scoring with two touchdowns apiece. Bill Doolittle and Kenny Krupp accounted for the other Mansfield touchdowns.

Clearview Romps Over New London

NEW LONDON—New London high's Wildcats dropped a one-sided 26 to 6 grid decision to Clearview high here yesterday.

The winners scored in the second, third and fourth periods while New London tallied in the final stanza. Bilton saved the Wildcats from a whitewashing by plunging over from the nine. It was the only time New London threatened.

SCOT IN HOSPITAL

WOOSTER—(U.P.)—Bob Brand, captain and sparkplug fullback for the Wooster college football team, was in a Cleveland hospital for observation today after he complained of severe headaches. He will not be able to play in the Wooster's game at Muskingum tomorrow afternoon.

Bantams Face Stiff Battle

Canton Lineup to Include Ex-Harris Paint Stars.

On a record comparison, the Adams Bantams should be favored when they tangle with the Canton Merchants in a bantamweight game at Blue Goose field Sunday, but Coach Hank Richards and his assistant, Joe Zimmerman, realize the size of the task confronting their team.

The Canton club has played splendid ball this fall, and lost by only one touchdown more against the Cleveland Skippies than the Mansfielders.

The Canton lineup will include several players who pereformed with the crack Marris Paints of Wooster last year.

The Adams team is working out every night under the lights at Johns park.

Freddies Defeat Loudonville, 12-6

LOUDONVILLE — Fredericktown struck twice in the final period here yesterday to hand the Red Birds of Loudonville high a 12 to 6 beating in a grid contest played in the mud.

Loudonville, seeking its second straight win, jumped into the lead in the second quarter on Mutchler's 62-yard return of a Fredericktown punt.

The Freddies came back strong in the fourth frame after being halted all afternoon by the stout Red Bird forward wall. Swank tied the score early in the stanza by racing 71 yards on a punt return. A little later Gregg heaved a five-yard pass to Weller in the end zone for the winning points.

Cafe, Rug Clubs Hold Lead In 'B' League

Ringside Keglers Pound Uprights for 2703 Count To Set Scoring Pace.

THE RINGSIDE CAFE and Mansfield Rugs continued in a tie for first place in the Commercial B league by winning their matches at the Meder alleys last night.

In taking two games from the Shelby Cycles, the Ringside club came through with a high 2703 total. The Rugs took two decisions from the Heilman Grocers.

The Satterlee Restaurant, led by Johns' 599, took three games from Ohio Public Service to break a tie with the Yuncker Sports for third place. The Sports won one game less from the Mansfield Printers, who produced the only 600 rolled of the evening in Louie Piller, who passed the coveted mark by six pins.

Hager, Schuster High In Women's League.

FEATURING a middle 191, Hager of Shelley's Candies set the individual scoring pace in the City Women's league with a 502 count. She led the Chocolates to two wins over the Carek Florists.

Schuster of the Long Bar was next high with a 500, but it helped her team to only one win in its match with the Brenner Jewelers. The Richland Printers took two games from the Morgan Dry Cleaners in the other match.

Feminine Fans To Get 'Break'

Nolan to Admit First 100 Free to Monday's Show.

Feminine wrestling fans will get a "break" at Monday night's wrestling show which the Quality Club will present in the Armory as the fall and winter inaugural.

Matchmaker Tim Nolan announced today that Monday night will be "Ladies Night" and as a special inducement to feminine fans, the first 100 who apply at the Armory gates will be admitted free of charge.

Nolan also announced the signing of another match which Will go on as the semi-final of the card. It is a two best out of three falls contest with a 45 minute time limit and will match Josef Morell, Hungarian lightweight, against "Tug" Wilson, rugged star hailing from Amarillo, Texas.

The feature event of next Monday's card will see the Great Mephisto, brilliant unknown of the mat world, returning here to meet Walter Miller of Atlanta, Ga., in a two out of three falls match with an hour and a half time limit.

1937 BUICK CENTURY
4-Dr. Sedan. Here is another man who couldn't resist the tempting lines of the new 1940 Torpedo model Pontiac. Equipped with the largest radio and heater, dual defrosters, clock, wheel ring, flexible steering wheel; sparkles like new; only 22,000 actual miles; upholstery has always been covered and looks like it did the day it left the local dealers. This car has always had the best of oils and greases and has always been serviced by the local Buick dealer. One owner, locally owned; owner's name given on request.

PAM—Suicide? By A. W. Brewerton

PAM WAS ATTRACTED BY THE STRANGE ACTIONS OF A GIRL CRAWLING OUT OF A WINDOW IN THE HALL OF HER OFFICE BUILDING!
THE GIRL SEEMED TO SHUDDER AS SHE LOOKED DOWN FROM THE DIZZY HEIGHT, THEN RISING, SHE STOOD POISED ON THE NARROW LEDGE AND HER LIPS MOVED AS IF IN PRAYER!
10-27
OH! — OH, MY! SHE'LL FALL! — ?!? — WHY — SHE ACTS — AS IF — SHE'S — GOING TO JUMP!
A WILD LOOK IN HER EYES NOW, THE GIRL'S BODY TENSED AS THOUGH SET TO LEAP! PAM STARTED TO RUN TOWARD HER!
STANDING ON THE VERY EDGE OF HER NARROW FOOTING, THE GIRL SWAYED OUTWARD!
WILL PAM REACH HER IN TIME?

Chuckle Corner

Coach of a badly beaten football team claimed it was a "moral victory." His statement sounded exactly like a European government communique.

Hitler should get married, suggests a noted Englishwoman. And so, no doubt, carry the war right into his home.

The days are getting shorter and gloomier, but the mornings are brighter—it being wheat cake and country sausage season.

Mussolini wants to be peacemaker. But who would agree to the selection of a referee who has already placed a bet on the other side?

A quick, almost immediate hypodermic cure for sprained ankles has been discovered, according to a report. Gosh, there goes a football coach's choicest alibi.

MARKET LACKS DEFINITE TREND, LEADERS FALL

Brokers Blame Dip on Final Hour Failure to Carry Rally in Last Session.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading issues failed to connect with buyers in today's stock market and dropped fractions to around a point.

Oft most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Phelps Dodge, Du Pont, International Harvester and Great Northern.

Brokers attributed the dip to disappointment over yesterday's final hour failure to carry through a rally under the leadership of the carriers. Many traders who bought on the morning bulge, thought it over during the night, they said, and decided to lighten commitments until some definite trend was discernable.

Points involved in boardroom discussions included the Dun & Bradstreet estimate that retail trade for the week averaged 8 to 12 per cent better than the 1938 comparative.

Wholesale buying was said to be confined chiefly to replacement of depleted stocks, with buyers preferring to play a waiting game as to future needs.

In the trade it was declared orders for electric utility equipment had increased considerably, reflecting anxiety over the lengthening of delivery dates. Sixteen months were said to be required for completion of a generator, with six additional months necessary for installation.

MORROW GRAND JURY TO PROBE ELECTION CASE

Jurors to Investigate Check by Clerk of Petitions on State Referendum.

MT. GILEAD—A Morrow county grand jury will investigate charges that I. B. White, clerk of the county board of elections here, violated election laws in checking the validity of signatures on Civil Service referendum petitions, Prosecuting Attorney Nelson Campbell announced today.

Campbell said today that he would subpoena P. J. Kirwin of Columbus, treasurer of the Civil Service referendum committee, to present evidence before the grand jury. Kirwin brought the charges against White last week when he wrote a letter to Secretary of State Earl Griffith of Mt. Gilead and demanded that White be removed for malfeasance in office.

White was charged with checking the petitions without calling in the board of elections as provided by law. Griffith reports that two names were deleted from a list of 100.

Although White says he checked the petitions with the consent of the board, three members say they do not remember having given White the power. A fourth member says he remembers that White did mention checking the petitions himself if he found no major irregularities.

Prosecutor Campbell received a letter from Kirwin Thursday in which he refused to come to Mt. Gilead for a conference on the evidence. Campbell says that Kirwin will be asked to testify before the grand jury in the case.

IT'S 'BAND DAY'

Mayor Issues Proclamation in Honor of Marine Musicians.

Mayor C. M. Hunter today declared Sunday as "United States Marine Band day" in Mansfield in recognition of the band's appearance here for two concerts in Senior high school auditorium.

The mayor said his proclamation was "our citizens' compliment to the oldest, first and foremost band in America and to the Junior Association of Commerce."

The concerts here will be sponsored by the J. A. C. which plans to apply the proceeds to its building fund.

Afternoon and evening concerts will be played Sunday at the high school. The Mansfield engagement will be the only one the band will play in Ohio on its 42-day tour.

Sailor Tells How 800 Lose Lives As Royal Oak Plunged

DUBLIN, IRELAND —(U.P.)— A young British sailor who leaped from the battleship Royal Oak when it was torpedoed by a U-boat told the first vivid story today of how 800 officers and men died in the oily waters of the Scapa Flow naval base.

The sailor, who swam two miles to shore, said men died quickly and without much chance of escape when the Royal Oak was sunk with about 1,200 aboard. Some of them couldn't swim even when they were able to escape the explosions and jump into the water, he said.

But there was a note of grim humor even then as sailors shouted to each other that it was a good time to learn to swim.

LABOR GROUP TO HOLD DANCE

City Trades Council to Sponsor Halloween Party Saturday.

A Halloween party and dance will be held at 9:30 p. m. Saturday at Trades Council hall, 21½ North Park street, by the Mansfield Trades council, an A. F. of L. affiliate.

Features will be a floor show, a jitterbug contest and prizes for the funniest and best-dressed masqueraders. An eight-piece orchestra will play.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements said entries in the jitterbug contest must register Saturday afternoon at the council headquarters, 21½ North Park street.

HE'S HENPECKED

Official Loses Battle With Hen; She Raises Family In Office.

GOLDSBORO, N. C. —(AP)— Bessie, a black bantam hen, flouted the law by building a nest in Magistrate Henry H. Brown's office.

Brown made five attempts to evict her, then gave up and rewarded Bessie's perseverance by granting her full jurisdiction in a corner of the office. Bessie, content, hatched nine baby bantams.

TRUCKER FINED

ASHLAND — Of two Roanoke, Va., brothers held in the county jail on charges of parking a truck along the road at night, without sufficient lights, one, Charles Hurley, 22, was fined $10 and costs on pleading guilty. He is still in jail.

The other was released, as no charges were prefered against him.

AUTO KILLS FARMER

FINDLAY, O.—(U.P.)—George A. Long, 72, a farmer, was killed yesterday when hit by an automobile while walking on a highway near Mt. Cory.

$7,655 FOR CITY

Mansfield Shares in Distribution of Liquor Permit Fees.

Mansfield will receive $7,655 as its share of $1,319,750 in undivided liquor permit fees distributed to municipalities throughout the state, it was announced in Columbus today by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. Shelby will receive $1,355.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said the amount, the third distribution of the year, will boost the total receipts from that source to $24,329, all of which is applied to the general fund for operating purposes.

CRUISER RUNS INTO TROUBLE

Antarctic Behemoth, Due in City Today, Not Expected Now Until Tomorrow.

tween Chicago and Warsaw. State police escorts had to be changed.

Thousands of spectators lined the highways. A half-mile traffic jam brought up the rear. Near Plymouth, Ind., the crew gave a 20-minute radio interview. At Warsaw, 10,000 persons saw the cruiser, 3,000 more than the town's population.

When the cruiser met a too-narrow bridge west of Warsaw, the crew worked three hours in the rain to remove hub caps so it would go through the bridge.

Bus Caught In Jam.

In many places, cars had to pull off the highways to let the cruiser pass. A trans-continental bus due in Mansfield this morning from the west was held up two and a half hours by the traffic jam back of the cruiser near the Indiana state line.

Two tow cars followed the cruiser to assist motorists whose cars stuck in ditches when they were crowded off the highway.

When the cruiser reaches Boston, it will be prepared for an expedition to Antarctica to claim land for the United States. It is scheduled to leave Boston about Nov. 15.

FUNERAL SET

R. D. Miller, Former Ashland Resident, Stricken.

ASHLAND — Funeral services for Ray D. Miller, 39, a World War veteran, and former Ashlander, who died at his home in Cleveland Wednesday afternoon, will be held here at the Denbow-Bear funeral home Saturday at 2:30 p. m., with Dr. H. E. Andrews of the First Presbyterian church officiating. Burial will be made in the Ashland cemetery.

Mr. Miller, a native of Jeromesville was born Nov. 6, 1899, and had lived in this county 28 years before moving to Detroit where he was employed in the automobile industry, and later to Cleveland, here he did general construction work.

He was married to Etta Weesner in November 1928, and is survived by his wife; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller of this county; one son, John Jay Miller of Marion; two sisters, Mrs. A. J. Morley of Columbus and Mrs. Gerald Imperio of Ashland, and one brother, John W. Miller of Ashland.

SPANKING SAVES LIFE OF INFANT

'Paddle Remedy' Does Trick When Baby Swallows Rivet.

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— The old-fashioned "paddle remedy," as applied by his mother, probably saved the life of eight-months-old George Henry Wendt today, Police Lieut. Carl Biedenharn said.

George, sitting in a walker, picked up a rivet from an index book and tried to swallow it, Lieut. Biedenharn said. The baby began to choke. The mother, Mrs. Marie Wendt, called the squad, then held George upside down and spanked him. The baby let out a big cough, and out came the rivet.

5 YOUTHS HELD IN VANDALISM

Springfield Township Quintet to Face Court for Breaking Windows Near Ontario.

County officers said five youths from the Ontario community were being held for the juvenile court today after they broke windows and damaged property at a number of homes south of Ontario last night.

Sheriff E. P. Long said the boys ranged from 14 to 16 years old and attended Springfield township high school.

"We warned boys and parents that they would all be brought into court the next time we caught youths destroying property, and that's what is going to happen this time," the sheriff said.

The sheriff and Ralph Carroll, county juvenile officer, investigated the vandalism and apprehended the youths this morning. The boys were to appear in court this afternoon or Saturday morning.

OPENS MONDAY

Galion City Officials to Move in New Hall.

GALION—With the exception of new equipment, the new city hall, a $110,000 structure, is ready for occupancy and city officials plan to move into the building on Monday. While the building has been under construction, city offices have been located in the Faber building on South Columbus street.

Bids are to be opened Wednesday, Nov. 1, for office equipment, electrical fixtures and window shades for the new building.

It is expected that on Saturday afternoon and Sunday, the new building will be open for public inspection.

Baker-Finney, Inc., have leased the quarters which will be vacated by the city offices on South Columbus street, for a garage.

SETS UP HOURS

New Ordinance Regulates Opening, Closing of Shiloh Barbers.

An ordinance, patterned after the Mansfield law governing closing hours for barbershops, was approved by the Shiloh village council Wednesday. It becomes effective in 30 days.

The meeasure which had the support of Shiloh barbers was passed unanimously after members of the Mansfield Master Barbers' association appeared before council. Those who attended the session from Mansfield were Peter Geisel, president of the association; K. D. McClure, Ray Ward and John Enderle.

U. S. CAN'T HELP DEMOCRACY BY FIGHTING, TEACHERS TOLD

Teachers of Mansfield and Richland county schools were among 15,000 Northeastern Ohio instructors to hear a plea to "face squarely our own domestic problems and stay out of Europe," issued by Clarence B. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, at the one-day convention of the Northeastern Ohio Teachers association in Cleveland today.

"We cannot preserve our democracy by sending the cream of this generation to fight in an European war," Dykstra declared. "To secure peace we must remain at peace."

The educator, who left the city managership of Cincinnati to become head of the University of Wisconsin, was the chief speaker at the opening session of teachers representing 15 Ohio counties.

Dykstra said that a victory for the Allies at this time "would not guarantee a peaceful world unless the cause of friction between nations can be liquidated."

With no contest for any office seen, the following association officers probably will be elected by acclamation: Carl Coffeen, superintendent of Summit county schools, president; Dale R. Rice, superintendent at Mentor, vice president; Miss Ellen Campbell, teacher at Ashland high school, recording secretary, and Terry Wickham, superintendent of Cuyahoga Heights schools, executive secretary.

BACK AT O. S. R.

Trusties Who Escaped Brought From Illinois Prison.

Two Ohio State reformatory trusties, one of whom escaped from the Sandusky honor camp 12 years ago, were returned to Mansfield from Illinois today by reformatory guards.

The fugitives are Thomas Holmes, 36, who fled from the honor farm in 1927 after serving 16 months of one to 15 years sentence for burglary and larceny, and Donald Martin, 30, who fled from the institution here in 1931 after serving little more than a year of a one to 15 year sentence for assault with intent to rob.

Both were brought here from Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet, where they were taken into custody following their release yesterday at the end of their terms.

As penalty for their escape, Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said both would be required to serve additional time. Holmes was sentenced to the reformatory in 1926 from Stark county and Martin in 1930 from Lucas county.

ing men in the city offices who have adopted a progressive policy instead of placing municipal affairs in the hands of inexperienced, immature political hands."

He also commended department heads for their operation of the various municipal services, and told his audience:

"I cannot take all the credit for the frugal manner in which your city has been run, but I will take the credit for surrounding myself with men of ability and experience."

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley seeking his eighth term, asked for support of the entire ticket reminding the group that "the opposition for the executive positions have had no actual experience in your city government while the present official experience totals more than 28 years."

Promising "fair and square" treatment, George H. Blecker, candidate for judge of municipal court on the non-partisian ticket said if elected that "justice will be meted out by the court in fairness, regardless of race, creed or color."

Eight other candidates on the Democratic municipal ticket were introduced to the group by Rev. W. J. Rogers, who presided at the meeting.

Tonight John C. O'Donnell, Democratic executive committee chairman and assistant County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz, will be principal speakers at a rally at 7:30 in common pleas court room at the courthouse.

FIGHTS ORDER

Motion Filed in Protest of Wickersham Bankruptcy.

With creditors of the Wickersham Printing company, Mansfield, declared bankrupt Oct. 12, due to meet at the courthouse this afternoon to prove their claims and elect a trustee, a motion had been filed today to set aside the bankruptcy order.

William C. Beer, Bucyrus, referee in bankruptcy for this district, was expected to rule on the motion at today's hearing. The motion was filed by the Walpark Realty company, owners of the building in which the printing company is located on South Walnut street.

Liabilities of the company were listed at $16,308 in the bankruptcy petition filed by the estate of the late Frank Wickersham who was manager of the firm. Assets amounted to $13,400, most of which represents equipment.

Atty. Charles Spreng, Mansfield, is receiver for the company. Mrs. Rachel June was named president of the firm after Philip Wolfe resigned about two weeks ago.

Following a tour of the plant, the children heard talks in the auditorium by Harold W. Arlin, director of personnel, and J. Gilbert Baird, sales promotion manager, and were shown motion pictures. The tour was arranged by George Ganyard, county extension agent.

Corn Huskers Slip And Slide In Mud For Buckeye Title

DELAWARE—(AP)—Ankle deep in mire, 40 contestants battled through a rain storm and virtual lake of mud and water today for two Ohio corn-husking championships.

A crowd of 6,000 persons—far below expectations—slithered over fields and roads to watch the huskers on the Lee Main farm, near here.

Competitors in the shocked corn contest and those who struggled down the rows of standing corn worked right through the driving rain, which delayed the start.

Spectators also had quite a time. Tractors pulled automobiles out of the mud on the roads, and those who had parked in fields wondered how they would get out. Motorists trying to push stalled cars fell down and came up covered with mud and water.

CITY OF FLINT SAILS, GERMAN CREW IN CHARGE

America's Claim to Boat and Cargo Void, Nazis Declare; U. S. Maps Protest.

trying to telephone the master of the Flint, or some other officer, at Murmansk. One call got through to the port city but that was cut off a minute later without conversation between the embassy and any of the Americans.

There still was no official word that the City of Flint actually had departed but well informed quarters said last night that she had left, flying the American flag.

Unofficial British quarters expressed belief that the Russian government was keeping silent to give the German prize crew "a running start" toward a German port. This was predicted on a belief that the German crew, released from internment, was back in control of the freighter.

U. S. Considers Denunciation of Reds.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The United States government is prepared to denounce Russia as having committed an un-neutral act if unofficial reports are true that the American freighter, City of Flint, has been turned over to Germany, it was learned officially today.

At the state department it was announced that no confirmation of the reports had been received, and that a faint hope was still held that the Soviet government would return the vessel and cargo to its American crew.

Although department officials declined to speculate on what action, if any, would be taken as a reprisal measure, they did state that all possible retaliatory steps are being canvassed.

Basis for a denunciation of Russia for committing an un-neutral act—if she has—would be article 21 of the 1907 Hague convention it was asserted. This article states:

"The prize ship must leave as soon as the circumstances which justified its entry are at an end. If it does not, the neutral power must order it to leave at once; should it fail to obey, the neutral power must employ the means at its disposal to release it with its officers and crew and to intern the prize crew."

It also specifies that a prize ship may only be brought into a neutral port due to "unseaworthiness, stess of weather or want of fuel or provisions."

bank cashier, both professions providing valuable experience for him.

George Kyle, Third ward councilman who spoke in behalf of his candidacy for re-election, said he would "help Locke in his program to solve the traffic problem and would work to obtain air mail service for Mansfield."

"Parking conditions here have been improved some, but the problem of what to do with wild drivers is a more important one," Kyle asserted. "If the city would set up a traffic department, we could get some auto license money from the state to help defray the expense," he added.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, another speaker, said he was seeking re-election on his record over the past four years.

"I can back up my statements with proof, and if any one here has ever come to me and got any one "off easy" in a case, I wish he would say so now and tell others about it."

Atty. Gatlett introduced 11 other candidates for municipal and township offices. Misses Miriam and Mabel Bishop, sisters, played several guitar-accordion duets.

Last night's meetings concluded the scheduled G. O. P. rallies for the week. A Sixth ward rally will be held Monday night at the Hedges school.

POPE ASSAILS DENIAL OF GOD

Condemns Governments Which Assume 'Autonomy Belonging to Supreme Maker.'

war is already raging in spite of all our efforts to avert it."

He said "new errors" added to the "doctrinal aberrations of the past" have pushed these "to extremes which lead inevitably to a drift toward chaos."

"Once the authority of God and the sway of his law are denied in this way," Pope Pius declared in his letter of more than 11,000 words to all Catholic bishops, "civil authority as an inevitable result tends to attribute to itself that absolute autonomy which belongs exclusively to the Supreme Maker.

"It puts itself in the place of the Almighty and elevates the state or group into the last end of life, the supreme criterion of moral and judicial order, and therefore forbids every appeal to the principles of natural reason and Christian conscience."

"Fortunately, false principles do not always exercise their full influence, especially when the age-old Christian traditions on which peoples have been nurtured remain still deeply, even if unconsciously, rooted in their hearts," the pope declared.

This was interpreted as a reference to such devoutly Catholic people as the Poles.

"Poland," the pontiff said, "has the right to generous brotherly sympathy of the whole world while it awaits . . . . the hour of resurrection in harmony with principles of justice and true peace."

Pope Pius described his "expectation and conviction" that each party will respect its "plighted word" in treaties as an indispensable condition of peace.

He said peace could not be achieved until "both sides are ready to enter into discussion and avoid recourse to force or threats of force in case of delays, hindrances, changes or disputes."

The pope acknowledged that treaties might become outdated with the passing of time. In such cases, he said, "recourse should be had to frank discussion with a view to modifying the treaty or making another in its stead."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1939.

Then again, it is entirely likely that the fellow who has the peanut concession feels quite sure he could run the whole circus.

Considering the number of auto smash-ups on wide, straight highways—the longer way around may be the safer way home.

For the benefit of the man who is quoted as being against the three-mill levy because "they wouldn't let you fish in it even if it was built," it may be said that "the City of Flint," captured by the Germans, is a ship, and that Michigan has not been invaded.

Second Thought on War

CHANGE in war sentiment in this country since September 1 indicates that American citizens have recovered from the first shock of the European conflict. On the whole, they are sympathetic with the French and British as they were at the start. They have simply come to feel that sending an army to join in the hostilities would be very foolish.

In the first week of the war, according to the Gallup polls, 40 per cent of those questioned thought this country should declare war on Germany and send the army and navy into the scrap. But now only 29 per cent favor such action, while 71 per cent oppose going to war.

For a number of years Americans had been reading books and hearing lectures upholding the theory that this country could not stay out of a big war, no matter what our peaceful inclinations. So when war got under way, it was widely accepted that it would be only a matter of time before we got in.

Today more Americans, apparently, believe we can stay out, should stay out and will help civilization more by staying out. At any rate, we no longer expect to be dragged in against our will. We now agree that such important matters can be decided by us, rather than by blind fate or scheming foreigners.

Railroads Improving Service

ANNOUNCEMENT by the Pennsylvania railroad of installation of a new overnight package car freight service between Mansfield and Chicago marks successful conclusion of a long effort to secure this transportation betterment, and is also in accord with reawakening interest by railroads in improving both freight and passenger facilities.

No factor in the present upturn in American business is more reassuring than appearance of improvement in the railroad situation.

Information from the Association of American Railroads shows that, although there are fewer miles of track than at one time, there are more miles of "first main track" than in 1918, because recent abandonments have been mostly unimportant branch lines. And though there are only 1,788,000 freight cars compared with 2,300,000 during the last war, they can carry much more freight, because the average car now holds eight tons more and moves 60 per cent faster.

With this equipment, plus repair and return to service of 200,000 stored freight cars and 8,000 locomotives, the association believes the roads can handle nearly half again as much business as there is now. Meanwhile orders are being given for many thousand new cars.

Electricity's Growing Field

PRODUCTION and consumption of electrical power seems now to be at its peak for all time in this country. Expansion of plants is the order of the day. A certain amount of development of the use of electricity was expected whenever business began to move up and wherever rural districts got a chance to use it, but the sudden rise in demand has been overwhelming.

Most of the increase is attributed to sound business growth. Household demands are growing rapidly, and while each home equipped with a new appliance uses only a little more power, the aggregate is calling for new plants and new generators.

This increase in the use of natural resources for the comfort and well-being of people is wholly good. Not so good when used to make the tools of war. So far peace-time uses are in the ascendancy.

Futile Endurance Test

THE prolonged flight of Robert A. McDaniels and Kelvin F. Baxter at Muncie, Ind., was another grim test of human endurance. The flyers remained aloft, steering their little airplane around and around, refueling and refueling, until they had flown without stopping about 22 days. They were certainly tired and cramped when they got back to earth.

They might have flown around the world two or three times in that period, if they had kept going in one direction and had been able to refuel regularly in the air.

But nobody seems to care about that sort of thing any more. Flying is an old story and the staying power of airplanes is taken for granted. So such performances sink to about the status of tree-sitting.

Walking Woods

ROBERT P. MARTIN, of the United Press Staff in China, sends a fascinating description of Chinese counter attacks against the Japanese in Hunan Province.

Chinese tactics, he reports, are based on a plan to destroy enemy lines of communication as fast as they are set up. It is mostly guerrilla warfare, but on a large scale and amazingly effective. Thousands of workmen are scattered along highways to smash Japanese mechanized units that come their way.

"This correspondent," writes Mr. Martin, "saw hundreds of coolies carrying small trees to camouflage batteries."

Have Chinese military strategists read "Macbeth," or is this use of the Birnam-Wood-to-Dunsinane trick as ancient and as modern as war itself?

Gain In American Toys

MORE American-made toys are beginning to appear in stores in this country since partial boycotts of Japanese and German toys, plus other trade difficulties, have restricted imports from those countries. Children of other lands, however, have very few American-made toys as yet.

Germany still holds 40 per cent of the world's toy business and Japan has 36. The United States at present has only 7 per cent of it. The rest of the world divides up the remaining 17 per cent.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This is the season of the year when lecture bureau managers trot out their most saleable talent and send it across country on tours that, as a rule, begin in New York and wind up on the coast. British authors have found American audiences especially receptive to their stories in recent years, and for this reason the bureaus are always on the alert for British writers who feel the inclination to climb upon a platform and talk, instead of write, for awhile.

There is another speaker—an Austrian, in town, and for the moment he is quietly going about the city, familiarizing himself with both its sober and its lighter sides. He is a tall, thin, quiet young man with wavy, reddish-brown hair, a sensitive looking mouth, a pair of direct yet brooding eyes. I am referring to His Imperial Highness, the Archduke Felix of Austria, a younger brother of Otto, who some day hopes to see a restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty in Austria.

Otto himself is in Paris at the moment, gathering legions of dissatisfied Austrians to fight against the Germans.

THE young prince has come to the United States by way of Canada, with his uncle, the Prince of Luxembourg. . . . He speaks English perfectly. His lectures will deal with the probable part Austria will play in the reconstruction of Central Europe.

He's only a stripling, but the Nazis are said to have him down on their private little blacklists. After the absorption of Austria, he fled across the border just in time. The Nazis immediately charged him with thefting the Hapsburg gold plate, but the prince declares looting Nazi officers confiscated it.

"I'm sorry I didn't think of it," Felix confesses. "I'd love to have it, but I was moving so fast I didn't have a chance to think of anything. I was in military school when Anchluss came, and with a chauffeur I made a break for the border. That was a wild ride. Every minute I expected to be overtaken.

"When he reached the Hungarian frontier, the Hungarian guards stopped us. They were afraid to let us pass for fear the Nazis would use that as an excuse to invade Hungary. Finally one of the guards said he would have to telephone Budapest for instructions, and when the guards went into the house we made a break for it. . . . The Nazis have got me all wrong about that gold plate. . . . I didn't take it, but I wish I had thought of it first."

ONE of Prince Felix's close friends is the Baron Silvercruys, Belgian envoy to Canada, and a brother of Suzanne Silvercruys, the sculptress and artist, who now is an American citizen and lives in New York much of each year.

In any case, H. I. H. Felix will have a chance to get acquainted with the town before he goes out. He is living at the Ritz and has been quietly wending his way along the brighter boulevards—looking. Broadway sees him during the theater hours, and somehow one regrets, for his benefit, that "Reunion in Vienna" isn't still one of the current hits.

Bob Crosby, whose orchestra is featured on the Dixieland Song Shop Tuesday nights, is the only top flight swingster who can't play a musical instrument. Bob, like brother Bing, does all his swinging through the vocal chords.

ROAD SERVICE — UNLIMITED

Jobhunters Disturb Statesmen

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — The business of distributing congressional patronage has been forced upon our attention. The conclusion is we would rather occupy a cottage between the Maginot and Siegfried lines than have to distribute postmasterships.

The nearest thing to a patronage heaven we have discovered has been worked out in Arizona. Even there tacks lie hidden in the golden streets.

It is for good reason that Senator Norris of Nebraska says that for every friend gained by giving him a job, a hundred disappointed applicants become active enemies. We need only go to Arizona for a sample.

Senators Ashurst and Hayden thought at one time it would be nice if they retained for themselves the job of naming the foremen on the federal project on the upper Gila river. There were 200 such jobs. Surely, they thought, that would be enough to go around. But the news got out that they were distributing the patronage. Promptly they were confronted with 1,200 applications.

Correspondence piled high and delegations called at the senatorial offices. In desperation the senators framed a message for the project superintendent.

"Name them yourself," was the gist of it. The superintendent did. The senators did not escape unscathed, however, because hundreds of potential foremen felt the senators had done badly by them in surrendering them to the mercies of a hard-as-nails engineer.

No Other Trouble.

OTHER than that, patronage flows smoothly in Arizona. The representative—there is only one in Arizona and his name is Murdock—names all the postmasters. As patronage goes that is fairly nice because in the range country of Arizona the postmaster sees all the neighbors at least once a week when they gallop in for the mail.

The big jobs, such as internal revenue collector, district attorney and United States marshal, go to the senators. Senator Hayden remembers only one serious departure from that happy arrangement.

While Hayden was representative in the pre-Murdock days, Senator Ashurst said he would like to name the postmaster at Flagstaff and Hayden said, "Sure, go ahead." Promptly three candidates sprouted like dragon's teeth from the arid soil. All were important friends of Senator Ashurst. After weeks of desperation, Ashurst came to Hayden's office in his usual philosophic mood and appealed for deliverance from his friends. Both have enjoyed telling the story since.

The two Arizona senators go even farther. When they name the district attorney, for instance, he must pick his own subordinates. Naturally he selects friends of his friends.

Divide the Spoils.

SENATORS Thomas and Lee of Oklahoma have worked out their patronage with reasonable success. Patronage can help in election years. The two Oklahomans cooperate. Thomas got to name most of the better jobs when he was up for election in 1938. Lee gets the lion's share now. He will be up for re-election in 1940.

Ordinarily a representative names men only to jobs within his district. If he is a Republican, he names nobody just now. In Ohio, where there are Republican representatives, Senator Donahey becomes the "arbitrator" in non-Democratic districts. Senator Taft is a Republican so he gets none of the gravy.

Readers of the Congressional Record will recall that patronage in West Virginia was not amicably distributed between Senators Holt and Neely. Holt claimed Neely got all the pudding and he filled the Record with scathing indictments.

The fright of it is members of congress can't dodge the trouble. Jobhunters make them choose — and then revile them for choosing the other man.

Timely Editorial

Let Dies Committee Continue.

The Dies committee investigating un-American activities will ask an appropriation to extend its work for another year from Jan. 3, 1940. This should be granted.

All the proceedings so far of this investigating group cannot be approved. Its greatest fault has been in accepting statements from one side without effort to check it for possible verification.

The most valuable contribution has been in blasting away the somewhat general tendency to brand as Reds all persons or organizations that do not conform to conservative patterns. The committee has done valuable work in pointing directly to activities which properly should be watched for evidence of subversive plans. Good work in tracing symptoms has been done.—Toledo Blade.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Why Is It "Faro?"

It may be puzzling, but is not accidental, the name Faro, for the gambling card game in which all the players are pitted against the dealer or banker, staking their money upon the order in which the cards will be in or be dealt from the pack.

Faro is simplified spelling for Pharaoh.

The game is so-called from the fact that the Egyptian ruler was formerly represented upon one of the cards which seemed to play a large part in the fortunes of those participating in the pastime.

Health and Diet

Finds No Safety In Large City.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ONE week last summer I was marooned in one of our large cities in order to see a member of my family through a surgical operation. The patient was in the hospital and I stayed at a club. Hospital rules being what they are, I had a good deal of time on my hands.

One evening I took a stroll around the downtown streets. The summer evening air was pleasant, the people were thought-provoking, and it amused me to stare in the bookshop windows as long as I liked without danger of the proprietor coming out to give me that fishy, appraising look. Absorbed as I was in a world where there were no wars, no corrupt WPA administrators, no hemorrhages, I inadvertantly stepped from the curb just in time to be grazed by a couple of young hoodlums who swerved around the corner in a top-down runabout. I could hear them laughing, as they drove away, at the old man who was suddenly brought back to the Machine Age. I scuttled home to my club.

The next night I went to the movies, and under a summer moon I strolled back along the bookstore street. When I got to the club, I found the doors locked though it was only 11 o'clock. When the doorman came, I expressed surprise at so early a closing. He explained that there had been so many holdups, robberies and slug-gangs nearby, it was thought best. I asked him what street these holdups took place, and he designated the very street through which I had just strolled. After I got to bed I counted seven ambulance sirens screeching up or down some nearby street, and I said to myself, "There, but for the grace of God, they go for me."

So the next night I tucked myself in early with the reflection that there, at least, I was safe. Then the uncomfortable thought occurred to me that statistics prove that more people die in bed than in automobiles. I was, as a matter of fact, surrounded by some of the most dangerous devices which the ingenuity of man has devised. I could slip in the bathtub. I could scald myself with hot running water. I could get tangled up with the electric fan. I could electrocute myself in the bathtub with the electric razor. I could fall out the window. I could set my bed on fire from my cigar and risk cremation in bed, as has happened not once, but twice, to one of my most distinguished and intellectual friends.

Home Toll Heavy.

Almost as many people in North America are accidentally killed in the supposed safety of their own homes as in the streets, in automobiles in the air above, in the water, down under the earth, and in all the factories.

To be exact, there are about 28,000 accidental deaths in homes per annum.

Autumn being the beginning of shut-in-time, remember these things:

Be sure the garage door is open before you start the auto engine.

Don't go into the cellar without light or support. Falls exacted a toll of 11,900 lives in 1930.

Guard against fires. Burns, scalds and explosions kill about 6,000 North Americans annually. There have been classified 19 kinds of fires; of them 11 occur in homes. Children playing with matches, gasoline used for cleaning, clothing ignited from stoves, gasoline or kerosene used to start fires, asphyxiation by smoke—are some of them.

Ohio Anecdotes

Ohio In the Revolution.

Defense of the Ohio country by frontier soldiers is mitigated in importance by historians of the American Revolution era, nonetheless the struggle did go on in this section.

British-sympathizing Indians were the enemy along the Ohio front. Stationed at Fort Randolph, just above Gallipolis on the Ohio river, Matthew Arbuckle of Virginia was an important figure in the American defensive.

Substituting tact and friendly offers as much as possible for armed clashes, Arbuckle made friends with Cornstalk, the Shawnee chief killed by his white men "friends" in 1777.

Indian depredations were kept at a minimum by Arbuckle's efforts. Those Indians he could not make allies he succeeded in making neutrals, thereby "spiking" Britain's guns in the west.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—One of the least understood but most significant features of the neutrality fight is the important undercover role being played by Herbert Hoover.

Not for years has the ex-president been so active. His recent radio speech and the similarity between his ideas and Lindbergh's were only surface indications of his extensive operations. Hoover's friends in all parts of the country tell of receiving telephone calls, wires and letters from him spurring them to throw their weight against Roosevelt's neutrality bill.

Besides the Lindbergh speeches, Hoover is credited with influencing at least two senators and several congressmen to oppose the legislation.

How far Hoover has gone in his behind-the-scenes war against Roosevelt was illustrated the other day when he heard that the president was considering the appointment of Colonel William Donovan as secretary of war in a coalition cabinet.

Apparently this nettled the ex-president. Why it nettled him, only Mr. Hoover knows. However, turn back for a moment to Mr. Hoover's house on S street in Washington just ten years ago.

Scene I—1929.

HOOVER had just been elected president, though not yet inaugurated, and one of the men who contributed heavily to his election was Colonel Donovan. A World war hero and a brilliant, liberal lawyer, Donovan was the mainstay of the justice department during the Coolidge administration.

In the 1928 campaign, he was one of Hoover's closest advisers, and being a Catholic and wet, he pulled a useful oar against Al Smith. Therefore it was generally understood that Donovan would become Hoover's attorney general.

After Hoover came back from his goodwill trip to South America, it leaked out that because he was a wet, Donovan would not become attorney general, but instead would be secretary of war.

Finally Hoover asked the colonel to come to his S street home. Newspapermen waited outside, expecting a cabinet announcement. When Donovan came out, he looked flustered.

"Did he ask you to become attorney general" they asked.

"No."

"Did he ask you to be secretary of war?"

"No, we sat there rather embarrassed," explained Donovan, "and finally he asked me what I thought about the Philippines. I told him I wasn't interested. By that time it was most embarrassing and I left."

Scene II—1939.

NOW, ten years later, with reports current that Donovan at last might become secretary of war, though under a Democratic president, Hoover called up mutual friends and complained about Donovan's "ingratitude." He further suggested that the friends intervene with Donovan and ask him not to take the job.

Justice Leaks.

THE justice department has been double-checking certain subordinates to find the advance leak about plans to indict Earl Browder for using a fake passport.

Frank Murphy was all set to move in on the Communist leader Monday when Representative Thomas let loose his carefully timed blast on Sunday wanting to know why Murphy had been so slow in acting.

There also may be a leak regarding the tightening justice department net around William Pelley, head of the Silver Shirts, and Bund leader Fritz Kuhn. Federal fireworks will break over their heads soon.

Roosevelt and Refugees.

BEHIND-THE-SCENES resentment against Roosevelt has been poorly conccaled among the International Refugee delegates, now meeting in Washington to settle the problem of refugees forced to flee from Germany and Austria.

Roosevelt, in opening their conference, proposed long-term plans for refugee settlement in South America, Australia and Africa. This irked French and British delegates who claimed that one reason for fighting Hitler was to prevent the inexcusable forced exodus of minorities from Germany.

After the war, the delegates contended, there should be no need of extended refugee settlement, since Germans forced from their homeland should be given the right to return.

French and British delegates felt so keenly on this that they asked Myron Taylor, former chairman of U. S. Steel and now vice chairman of the refugees committee, to ask the president to reverse himself.

Note—Insiders blame a careless ghost-writer for Roosevelt's stand. They point to the fact that the president also got himself out on a limb by referring to "Jewish refugees," when actually there are many Catholic and Protestant refugees.

Merry-Go-Round.

HARDEST working senator of the special sesion is Joe O'Mahoney, chairman of the monopoly investigating committee. Besides keeping his hand in on the neutrality debate, he has been conducting eight-hour monopoly hearings. . . . Big mystery in the senate is how Father Coughlin's friend, Louis Ward, gains entrance to the diplomatic gallery. Seated in the front row Ward has been following the debate from this choice vantage point practically every day. At one crowded session, he occupied a front seat while the daughter of a prominent South American ambassador sat on a step in the aisle. . . . Representative Bruce Barton isn't saying anything about it publicly yet, but he is quietly grooming himself to oppose Senator Jim Mead. New York New Dealer, when he comes up for election next year.

Oversight.

Congress seems somehow to have lost the old touch. It isn't working neutrality up into one of those Authorities, with 48 branch offices and 17,000 on the payroll.—Detroit News.

Cheerful Thought.

We are reminded that we can have no war unless congress declares one, and with an election year coming on congress probably would sound out the grass roots on it—Kansas City Times.

On Halloween

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I LISTENED to three prominent men discussing Halloween.

"It isn't like it used to be," the banker declared. "When we were boys and went to country school it used to be the regular thing to find the school lawn decorated, the morning after, with numerous pigsties and outhouses brought there from all the nearer groups of dwellings. Every farm tool left outside, for miles around, would be there too and maybe a surry parked on top of the roof or a billy goat tied in the belfry."

"It used to be the thing to do to put things into the creek above the dam, down where I came from," said the attorney. "A Dutchman down our way had a farm wagon, and no place to shed it. So he drew it up alongside his house on Halloween. But then he heard a noise at the other side, and found two boys fooling around. He chased them off, and when he came back something had happened to his wagon. He couldn't find it. Finally he trailed it, by the tracks, down to the dam. He came back, red and incoherent, and told my father—'Vere I find my vagon, dink? Down at the dam- vun end up here, the udder down there, all coupled apart."

The preacher had not spoken. Now he smiled benignly. "There used to be a farmer in our neighborhood that none of the boys was fond of," he remembered. "He was a parsimonious old fellow, with a very deficient sense of humor. He drove his team and wagon to the cider mill one Halloween and had to wait to get the cider made. It was dark before he was half way home. About a mile from his place he ran into a barricade of corn fodder across the road and had to stop the team and carry it away before he could go on. He muttered and swore all the time he worked, and when he went to drive the wagon through, one keg of cider had rolled off and disappeared. He went on home, but would you believe it, three other barricades of fodder were to move before he could get into his own barn. They seemed to come into being around every curve, even while he was moving the one that had stopped him last."

The men all laughed. "One thing has always puzzled me," said I. "Who did such dirty tricks?" They looked at one another, shook their heads, and agreed they'd always wondered too.

MARRIAGE LAG FOUND LASTING

Survey Shows Persons Who Delay Wedlock Likely To Remain Unmarried.

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — Persons who delay marriage because of economic pressure during times of depression are likely to remain permanently unmarried according to a survey made by Mrs. Francis Meurer Deputy, member of the graduating class at the University of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Deputy, who conducted the survey in connection with her studies in sociology at the graduate school of arts and sciences, gained most of her information from marriage records in Marion county, Ind., wherein her Indianapolis home is located.

She considered the effect of the depression on marriages and analyzed relations between changing economic conditions and the number and types of persons applying for marriage licenses between 1929 and 1939.

"According to the picture presented by the total annual number of marriages," she explained, "there is a pronounced increase in the years following 1932—an increase ordinarily interpreted as resulting from postponements.

"But if this had represented postponements, more marriages in the older age groups would have been noted in the years following the depth of the depression. These records were examined to see if any changes might reveal postponement.

"The conclusion, however, is definite. In Marion county, with a population of 422,666, the annual changes in business activity brought no significant changes in the ages of marriage license applicants."

BAND PUSHES CAMPAIGN FOR NEW UNIFORMS

Arranges Fourth Project to Raise Funds, Concert by Operatic Ensemble.

If persistence means anything, the Senior high school band will have its new uniforms much sooner than expected

More than $420 already has been raised toward the purchase of new uniforms through three different projects, and announcement of a fourth project, a musical concert, was made today by J. Merton Holcombe, director.

The band will sponsor the appearance of Herbert Petrie and his White Hussars, a symphonic and operatic ensemble, in the high school auditorium Dec. 7.

The largest contribution to the uniform fund was made last Saturday when over $390 was raised through a tag day sale on downtown streets. Money also has been raised through the sale of boutonnieres at a recent football game and a bake sale.

Petrie, director of the ensemble, was formerly cornetist with the famous Naval Battalion band, directed by the late John Philip Sousa, and now conducts a band camp for high school musicians every summer at Winona Lake, Wis.

At least 15 members of the Red Masque club will go to Ashland tomorrow night to attend the play "Our Town," to be presented at McDowell auditorium as a feature of Homecoming day at Ashland college.

Playing one of the lead roles in the production will be Miss Esther Jenkins, a graduate of Senior high school and former member of the club.

Although Navy Day is being observed today throughout the nation, the Senior High program will not be held until Monday due to the annual state teachers' meeting being held today at Cleveland.

The program will be broadcast over the school's public address system by students of the school Radio Council, at 8:25 a. m. Ed Eisele will present a paper on "Coast Defense," written by Miss Margaret Tinsley, history teacher. Musical numbers will be presented by Lois Ohler, flutist, and Margaret Wadsworth will act as announcer.

Members of the A Capella choir will hold a barn party Saturday night at Louis Bromfield's Malabar farm in Pleasant Valley

The group will meet at the First Congregational church at 7 30 p m. and go to the farm in private cars. Chaperones will be Jesse Beer, principal, A. LeMoine Derr, choir director, and Calvin Byers, faculty member. The committee in charge of arrangements is made up of Richard Sparks, chairman, Gladys Kerr, Robert Earley.

SAME ATTORNEY

One Lawyer Represents Both Sides, Wins And Loses.

WEST HAVEN, Conn — (UP) — Anthony di Nello and Clifford Warner, were in town court on a rules of the road violation growing out of a collision of their automobiles

When di Nello's case was called, Attorney George W. Chisaski stepped forward to represent him. His plea won a discharge for his client.

Then Judge Thomas C. Sullivan took up the charge against Warner. Chisaski informed the court he also was representing the "other side" of the case

"This is rather an unusual circumstance," Judge Sullivan observed as he imposed a $15 penalty on Warner and Chisaski announced he would appeal the fine.

$3,950 DAMAGE CLAIM SETTLED

Court Approves Agreement Reached in Fatal Traffic Accident.

Settlement of a damage claim for $3 950 for the death of Robert Shreffler, 20, Weller township in a traffic accident Oct. 2 near Ashland had been approved today by Probate Judge C. J. Anderson

Settlement of the claim for that amount was agreed upon by Lloyd Shreffler, administrator of the estate of the traffic victim, and Clayton Bartley, privr of a car which figured in the crash There was no damage suit filed in the case.

The Shreffler youth was fatally injured when a car he was driving collided with one operated by Bartley.

CHAIR FRAME MADE OF HORNS

HIRAM — (UP) — Mrs J O Newscomb has as her most prized possession a chair made from the horns of Texas long-horn steers

It was a gift to her father, the late Prof. Colman Bancroft The entire frame is made from the steer horns and the seat covering is of leopard's skin. It bears a silver name plate engraved Jan. 1, 1895.

EAGLES URGE STATE TO HIKE AGED PENSIONS

Mansfield Lodge Joins Move to Make Payments Conform With U. S. Act.

Amendment of the Ohio old age pension law to raise the maximum monthly pensions from $30 to $40 in line with the recent revision of the federal social security act by congress today had been advocated in a resolution adopted by members of Mansfield Aerie No. 336, Eagles.

A change in administration of the division of aid for the aged also was urged in the resolution presented to the aerie by A. J. Eglesberg, chairman of the social security committee, on behalf of the Ohio State Aerie Social Security committee.

It asks Gov. John W. Bricker to call a special session of the general assembly as soon as possible to amend the penion law.

Not For Bigelow Plan.

H. C. Ricketts, president, told the lodge besides advocating raising the limit of Ohio pensions to conform to federal law, the Eagles urge the state division of aid for the aged, now part of the Ohio welfare department, be made a separate department under a nonpartisan commission, which will operate the department entirely free from any suspicion of political interference.

Ricketts also denied reports that the Eagles of Ohio have endorsed the Bigelow plan.

"The Eagles of Ohio have not endorsed the Bigelow plan," he said. "We are concerned solely with the success of the pension system we asked the voters of Ohio to create, which has proven sound financially and in every other way during six years of operation. We do believe this law can be improved and strengthened to care for all worthy, needy aged Ohio citizens even more adequately than at present without imposing any new tax burdens," he added.

EATS 'TROPHY'

Fisherman Finds Out About Prize Until Too Late.

EXETER, Cal. — (U.P.) — P. J. Wells caught the fish all right—it was the trophy that got away.

After eating a 26½-inch trout he caught, Wells learned to his sorrow it would have won him a new casting rod offered for the biggest catch of the season.

Although he had photographs and witnesses, it was a case of "corpus delicti" so far as winning the trophy was concerned, and he didn't get it.

OWNER OBLIGED

Auto Thief Leaves Car Intact With Fishing Equipment.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Patrolman James Fausek missed his week-end fishing trip, but he still has his $50 worth of fishing equipment.

He parked his automobile to make a store purchase. When he returned the car was gone. Two days later a zone car found the stolen vehicle. The fishing tackle was intact in a rear seat.

Drama on World Armaments Ends Series Tonight

A drama on the timely subject of world armaments will be presented at 8:15 p. m. today at First Congregational church as the final number of the series of entertainments sponsored by the Mansfield Public Parks Association.

The Collins Players will be seen in "Youth Carries The Torch", in which two parallel love stories are carried through a maze of mystery and political intrigue revolving around a powerful high-frequency ray which makes all modern world armaments obsolete overnight.

The players are all professionals and the Collins plays are one of the company's most popular forms of entertainment.

The Mansfield course, which got under way a month ago, has been made up of two musical numbers, a lecture and tonight's play. The Parks association sponsored the series of entertainments as an educational contribution to the community and to raise money for the community celebration of Fourth of July next year.

PLAN CAMPAIGN TO AID COLLEGE

Case Alumni In Mansfield Meet at Elks Club Tonight.

A committee headed by W. E. Slabaugh, jr., will hold a dinner at the Elks club tonight to plan a campaign in the Mansfield area to raise building and endowment funds for Case School of Applied Science at Cleveland.

Members of the committee are alumni of the engineering school. Funds will be solicited only from alumni and former students.

The dinner here will be a part of a nation-wide campaign to raise $400,000 for improvements at Case. The drive opens today with a nation-wide radio broadcast.

CHEROKEE VOTE QUENCHES ROW IN SMOKY PARK

Tribe Re-elects Chief Who Favors Land Grant for Highways.

CHEROKEE, N. C. —(U.P.)— A three-year controversy which threatened to leave the Blue Ridge Parkway—now nearing completion—without any southern terminus, apparently has been settled.

The parkway will enter the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in western North Carolina through the Cherokee Indian Reservation, as was originally planned, unless unforseen difficulties arise.

Wins Crushing Victory.

In a recent election within the Cherokee tribe, Chief Jarrett Blythe, who advocated granting the National Park Service a right-of-way into the Park, was re-elected to his post. He won a crushing victory over Vice-Chief Fred Bauer, who has actively opposed various proposals for yielding Indian land for the roadway. The vote for Blythe was more than four to one.

Early plans for the $35,000,000 boulevard of pleasure called for a right-of-way directly through the Qualla Reservation lands into the Smoky Park, that being the only feasible place for the roadway to enter the park. But for three years a faction within the tribe, led by Bauer, has persistently blocked every effort of the federal government to acquire the necessary land. The sky-high parkway has already been completed from Shenandoah National Park in Virginia well down into North Carolina, and work has begun from Asheville westward toward the Smokies Park.

Previously the Indians had submitted a counter-proposal, which would have to be voted upon by congress, under which the government would pay cash for a right-of-way, the cash to be distributed as "head money" to members of the tribe. Triumph of the pro-parkway faction, however, is believed to mean a speedy and decisive end of opposition to the highway's entry through the Qualla lands.

BEST SYSTEM

Lawn Mower Used as Anchor Brings Up 'Catch.'

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—(U.P.)—Merle Mosier, a state probation officer, can't be bothered with rod and reel. His best system for fishing involves a lawn mower.

Mosier lacked an anchor when he and his host went fishing at Gun Lake, near Middleville, Mich., and his host suggested an old, rusting lawn mower.

As the day passed with rod and reel proving inefficient, Mosier hoisted the anchor. The anchor hoisted a fish line. One end of the fish line hoisted a rod and reel, while the other end brought up a healthy, frisky and humiliated bullhead.

REDUCE STAFFS OF HOSPITALS

MONTREAL —(U.P.)— Hospitals are running short-staffed for the time being due to the war.

More than 50 orderlies and almost as many other staff members, ranging from resident physicians to ambulance drivers, have answered the call to the colors.

Schools reported they have not lost any faculty members yet, but at McGill, members of the staff are doubling up, combining war work with teaching duties.

French Search Prize For Mystery Gadgets

A German pursuit plane, brought down somewhere in France, is taken apart by French mechanics. Few warplanes are shot down in as good condition as this one appears to be. If any of the miracle gadgets which Germany claims for its ships were aboard, the French should know all about them now.

CITY PREPARES FOR ICY BLASTS

Asks Bids on 500 Tons of Salt to Be Used on Streets During Winter.

Preparing for the annual battle with ice and snow that makes streets hazardous during the winter, city officials today called for bids on 500 tons of refuse salt to be used during the coming months.

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist announced that sealed proposals on the salt would be accepted at his office in the city building until noon, Tuesday, Nov. 14.

At the same time, the board of control also called for bids on two construction jobs which involve extension in the sanitary sewer system.

Larger of the two projects includes the laying of a new sanitary sewer on Cook road from Woodland road to Lexington avenue, and on Woodhill road from Yale drive to Woodland road. A total of 2,000 feet of eight-inch pipe is to be laid.

The other project involves the laying of 250 feet of new sanitary line on the first alley north of Ashland road and running east from Central avenue.

GALION—Ollie Ocker of Cherry street who underwent a major operation Monday at Mansfield General hospital, is improving.

$310 million more Ohio taxes

the Bigelow plan

What is it?

It is a scheme to guarantee an income of $50 a month to all non-wage earners in Ohio who are more than 60 years old.

The $50 a month is for individuals. Married couples would get $80.

There are 690,000 persons in Ohio who could qualify for the money.

The cost—310 million dollars a year

This is an official figure

It comes from the Ohio Tax Commission.

provision for paying

The first Bigelow amendment sets up two taxes to pay the bill. They are:

1. A 20 mill tax on real estate valued at the rate of $20,000 an acre and up.
2. An income tax equal to one-fourth what you paid the federal government last year.

Would these pay the bill?

They would not.

The State Tax Commission says the revenue from these two proposed taxes would fall short from 170 to 260 million dollars a year.

What then?

program spells ruin

Schools will lose their state money.

Relief work will halt.

Highway building will stop.

Crippled, blind and dependent children will lose their benefits.

Other welfare work will stop.

Government will be paralyzed.

Why?

Because this proposed amendment contains an iron clad first mortgage on every dollar of present or future revenue.

The old age subsidy claims will have to be paid before we get any other state services.

plague of new taxes

This means more big, new taxes.

The sales tax will go, maybe to 6 cents or even 9.

Amusement taxes will be increased.

Even necessities may be classed as luxuries and things we use like radios and refrigerators will be subject to special, backbreaking taxes.

Even checks will be taxed and there will be—payroll taxes service taxes
occupational taxes.

The legislature will have to invent taxes you never heard of to pay this staggering bill.

20 mills forever

The 20 mill tax will catch nearly everyone including workers.

Modest little homes, the kind often built as close as 10 to an acre and worth from $2500 up, will be caught by this tax.

The shadow of this tax burden falls on every interest in the state but always—

In the end it falls on the poor.
It touches the most modest, little home built by thrift and industry,—or rented.

The price is 20 mills—forever.

destroys government

The first Bigelow amendment would destroy property values.

It would bring building to a dead stop.

The second amendment is even worse.

It would destroy representative democracy.

It proposes a simple method by which a minority might place any selfish or crank idea on the ballot.

It lets the bars down on the initiative.

That means two things:

1. You would have so many fine-print laws to vote on that you would throw them away.
2. You would lose the advantage of the debate, committee hearings, compromise and amendment that goes on in the legislature.

The initiative was intended for big, POPULAR issues. It never was intended to be the vehicle for a tax bill.

16 FIRE-RESISTANT—PERMANENT ROOF AND SIDEWALLS will never wear out

THE OLD WAY TO FINANCE

Here's what used to happen under the old method of financing: Let's say you borrowed $5,000. Of course, you probably had to renew the loan every 2 or 3 years, pay high financing charges and be greatly inconvenienced all the way around. But let's forget those things. The important point is that you didn't reduce the principal at all, but let the debt run. In 25 years you paid about $6,875.00 in interest, and after all that cash outlay (over a period of a quarter century), you still owed the $5,000. In short, it cost you $11,875.

THE NEW WAY TO FINANCE

Here's what happens today under the new and modern methods of financing. Let's say you borrow $5,000. You reduce the principal $50 every three months. In 25 years you pay only $3,472.25 in interest at 5% (maybe even less). And in 25 years your debt is free and clear, and you owe nothing. It has cost you $8,472.25, or an actual saving of $3,402.75 on financing charge alone.

The House You Build or Buy

In 1939---Has More Real Value Yet Costs Less Than Ever

Look what your building dollar buys in 1939!

Your dollar buys greater comfort and more convenience. You get a more beautiful and more healthful home. Your dollar buys a security that only those who own their own home ever know.

Your dollar buys light and airy rooms. You get modern, step saving kitchens and laundries. Bathrooms are smart and modern. Plumbing is dependable. Heating and cooling offer no problem. Recent improvements in building materials give your home added permanence.

Wherever you look, you get more for your money in a 1939 home than you ever got for your dollar before. Besides there's no landlord to worry about ---and you're paying rent to yourself, because in 18 to 25 years the house will be all yours.

Hundreds of Mansfield families have found during the past few months that it's really cheaper to own your own home than it is to rent. With building prices at current levels a home is the biggest bargain of a lifetime---and it's a bargain you'll always cherish because it is . . . home.

CHAPTER X.

"I suspected there was something strange about him, of course. But he was with us such a short while—not long enough to know him, really. And I suspect," she raised her voice again, "it would take a very long time—to get thoroughly acquainted with Mr. Cleveland."

She was thinking bitterly, "So he's dated that ultramodern Eva Sheen! Obviously, she's out for the millions!"

But even now, Tom Cleveland made no response, no effort to defend himself. Rita was in quandry. Was there something sinister behind all this? Why had Tom Cleveland suddenly become her chauffeur, and as suddenly torn himself away?

When the tall willowly Eva Sheen got into the car, the very air seemed electrified with her presence. Eva was a beautifully gowned, tall, vivacious brunette, stunning rather than pretty, and fascinating in a decidedly worldly way. She was patently out to attract Tom, as Rita had supposed. Although Eva was the niece of James MacGregor, president of a powerful bank, her parents were not too well off, and this eligible man was a piece of luck not to be ignored. Eva had been a model in New York; she knew how to make the most of her good points, how to take the limelight.

Rita was not obliged to talk to Tom during the remainder of the drive to the club. She couldn't have slipped a word in edgewise if she had wanted to—Eva was chattering so incessantly.

In the club dressing-room, Rita encountered Roger's mother. Selia Brewster exclaimed, "My dear —now this party is complete! I was afraid you'd think you couldn't come."

A slow flush crept into Rita's cheeks, but she knew that Selia meant no criticism. She was one of the nicest older women she knew.

On impulse, Rita told her the truth. "I had to come—had to get away from myself. You're looking at a most poverty-stricken individual. Poor Wilmot! I'm trying to forgive him."

"You don't mean he mismanaged things for you, my dear!"

"Unfortunately, yes. I've nothing left—and I'm slightly bewildered, to say the least."

Selia wound an arm around Rita's waist, drew her close. "You poor child! I knew you were selling the two homes—but I thought you'd decided to go to Paris to live with your mother. Gossips are linking her name with a certain count, you know."

Rita thought quickly, "So people have found that out, have they?"

She said stoutly, "No, I'm not going there—I'll make my own way—find something to do."

"But what can you do, dear?"

"I don't know exactly. I can write letters—teach golf, bridge, dancing, or . . ."

"Nonsense!" Selia frowned, her kindly brown eyes under a crown of lovely silvered hair met Rita's tragic eyes in the mirror. She exclaimed, "I have it! Come live with me—be my social secretary! It would be a wonderful arrangement for us both."

Rita's face cleared. She smiled almost happily. "I'd love it—if I could really make good."

"Of course you can—and it's settled."

"Oh, thank you, Selia. You don't know what this means—to have some sort of future to hang on to," came from Rita unsteadily.

Selia Brewster lightly kissed Rita's cheek, rushed away with, "Come as soon as you can—it will be such fun having you."

Rita did not pause to consider that Robert Brewster had been determined to marry her, that he might still be in the same frame of mind, and that his mother might be abetting him. The future did not favor Rita with a preview. She had to take it blindly, as blindly as other people have to take their futures. If she took it a little too blithely, a little too hastily, she was not wholly to blame. What followed could be laid at the door of the fates, that strew life patterns with wanton mischief, perhaps chortling gleefully when they accomplish their ends.

When Rita came out to the lounge, cocktails were being served. The subdued crystal wall lights in the long high room lent intriguing shades to the vari-colored gowns on the women, and their high-pitched voices blended with the sonorous masculine voices like gay notes in a modernistic orchestra.

Instantly, Tom Cleveland was beside her, saying, "Rita, please forgive me. I can explain everything—I can—"

"I've been wondering where you were," broke in Roger possessively.

Eva joined them now, her light laugh holding an assurance that nettled Rita. She edged toward the dining-room and the others followed.

A voice in Rita's ear said, "Later, dear—later, I must see you."

Something sailed liltingly through her veins at Tom's insistence. Soon, she would know all about Tom Cleveland's ridiculous ruse—the actual reason for it. She would make him tell her.

Sitting across from Rita at the long dinner table full of high-spirited guests, Tom was staring at her over a mound of white violets outlined by blue anemones nearly the color of her eyes. His narrowed gaze seemed to pierce through and beyond her at something very serious and deeply significant.

She stirred uncomfortably before this scrutiny, turned to Roger beside her.

"It's a grand party, Roger," she said quickly. "You always get the right people together, don't you?"

She hardly knew what she was saying, but she had to hear the sound of her own voice, try to quell the strange pounding of her heart.

Roger smiled vaguely as he tasted his fruit cocktail. He was hungry, and pretty women could be attended to later.

Rita tried to tell herself it was silly to be jealous of Eva, who sat wedged in between Tom and his cousin, Terry Cleveland. Terry's parents had a home in Los Angeles, and Tom had been staying there since leaving Seabreeze.

Eva's cleverly made up face was now smiling intimately at Tom over a cloud of crimson tulle that formed an abbreviated bodice below her bare ivory shoulders. A smart, but too bizarre gown, Rita decided. The white orchids Eva wore were probably from Tom's florist. And why not? Wasn't she herself decorated with Roger's camellia corsage? Weren't flowers the customary courtesy of any man to his date?

But she shivered with distaste, turned away from Eva's hawk-like countenance. She took a sip of ice water from the crystal tumbler before her, conscious of the light laughter, the light dinner conversation going on all around her, the waiters slipping noiselessly about with trays of food and drink, the scent of flowers and rich edibles, all the usual accompaniments of a well-managed dinner party.

You attended several, then gave one yourself. It was returned in kind, and you were indebted all over again. Sometimes it was a terrific bore, but it was a helpful outlet for all ambitious debutantes. You met new people, got engaged or were made love to; you flirted, got your heart broken, or broke some one else's heart; and the mad dash to see and be seen went on.

It was the way she had been brought up. She never had dreamed of having to step down and out of her own particular circle. But now she was wondering if the whole setup wasn't too stereotyped. She was nearly glad that she was about to view it from the sidelines. A social secretary! Should she take it on?

The dinner dragged along, came to demi-tasse and finger bowls about the time that the orchestra in the adjoining ballroom got into the swing of an enticing Strauss waltz. By common consent, couples rose, began wandering nearer the music, began dancing on the black glass ballroom floor.

Rita, held close in Roger's arms, moved her feet mechanically. Over Roger's narrow shoulder, she singled out Eva's vibrant smile directed at Tom. She saw his responsive naive grin, his hair nearly white now under the subdued artificial light. His hair would look this way fifteen or twenty years from now, Rita thought. He would be distinguished - looking. Even now, he was a man to be singled out in any crowd.

Terry Cleveland cut in, and Rita whirled away in the opposite direction. Terry began talking about the new yacht his father had just given him, about the party he was taking to Hawaii in January; he invited Rita to go along.

"It sounds like something I shouldn't miss—but I can't make it, Terry. I'm planning to be a working gal."

"Working—you? That's a laugh. What ails working conditions these days is too many rich girls taking a whirl at jobs—for a thrill. It's a low-down trick!"

Rita smiled wryly. "But I'm really one of the down-and-outers, precious. I've—lost everything."

"Lost . . . "Terry stopped dancing, held her at arm's length, looked at her in disbelief. "You're joking, aren't you?"

"Absolutely not."

"I can't get it. A swell little number like you! Let's dash out of this jam—get some pure ozone."

"Yes—let's."

THEATERS

MARLENE DIETRICH'S famous legs which were more or less discretely covered while she was a Glamor Gal, are something more than decorative in her current picture, "Destry Rides Again". The star abandons her previous langor with a vengeance. She plays a tempestuous belle of frontier days, with James Stewart (who has the critics in raves over his work in "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington") and uses her shapely pins whenever she gets mad. In one scene she boots Actress Brenda Taylor off Stewart's lap, and in another she kicks at her maid, and in still another plants a kick in the seat of Charles Winninger's trousers. In other words, she is a far cry from the Dietrich of Von Sternberg days, and it will be interesting to see what Producer Joe Pasternak can do for the girl whom the gossips whispered was through.

New Starlet Appears

Emerging as "Honeymoon In Bali" after several other titles, the new Fred MacMurray - Madeline Carroll picture, has its Mansfield showing at the Madison, starting tomorrow. These two were teamed in "Cafe Society", one of the hits of the year. And with them is Carolyn Lee, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Copp, who have spent considerable time in Mansfield for the past few years. Carolyn is seen as Rosie, a waif who is left with Fred MacMurray. Miss Carroll appears as a self-satisfied career girl, and Akim Tamiroff as the window-washer whose philosophy sets her feet on the right road after she has almost lost the man she loves.

A Roaring Era

No one in America was more prepared to write the story of "The Roaring Twenties" than Mark Hellinger, the Broadway columnist, who lived in a pent house atop New York City while the mad decade from 1919 to 1929 whirled around and below him. This Hellinger story provides a vehicle for James Cagney and Priscilla Lane, with Cagney as the young World war veteran who returned to find himself on the outside of all jobs and took the only opportunity offered him — bootlegging. Miss Lane is the girl who found success in the night club and Gladys George plays a role that might have been Texas Guinan. Humphrey Bogart, Frank McHugh, Jeffrey Lynn and Paul Kelly are in the cast. The picture opens at the Ohio tomorrow.

Western Hero No. 1

Gene Autry, who has replaced Tom Mix in the hearts of American boys and girls and who makes the same spectacular and dashing figure in his white 10-gallon hat, is one of the Park attractions, in his most recent picture, "Git Along Little Doggies." Smiley Burnette and pretty Judith Allen are seen in his support. The story deals with Autry's efforts to protect fellow ranchers against encroaching oil interests, combining melodrama with adventure. The second film is "The Girl and The Gambler".

"Timber Stampede"

Filmed against the heavily timbered slopes of an impressively beautiful region of the Rocky Mountains, "Timber Stampede" brings to the Majestic screen one of the George O'Brien action films. The story is concerned with the fradulent grab by a couple of corrupt land barons of the valuable timber tracts around the famous Wagon Wheel Pass country. The attempt is exposed by cattlemen, led by O'Brien. "Drums", stirring drama of an insurrection in India, is also shown.

Action and Comedy

Another reminder of the Old West is found in "Undercover Man", in which John Mack Brown is the 19th century counterpart of the 20th century G-Man. This story of stage coach days is a current feature at the Ritz, and has "everything" from street duels to stage hold-ups. Brown is the dashing adventurer who sets things right. "Cowboy Quarterback" with Marie Wilson and Bert Wheeler balances the bill with comedy.

"PRESTONE" anti-freeze is used in more cars made since 1933 than all other brands combined!*

*This statement is based on the findings of a nationally famous research organization.

Here's why

One shot of "Prestone" anti-freeze lasts all winter long. There's no worry. No boiling off. No replacing. "Prestone" anti-freeze users are safe and they know it!

The wide preference for "Prestone" brand anti-freeze extends to cars of all makes and ages. For "Prestone" anti-freeze has behind it more experience, more research and more success than any other brand of anti-freeze ever made.

That's why so many motorists—with real automobile investments to protect—refuse to use boil-away alcohol preparations or new and untried products claimed to be "just as good." See your "Prestone" anti-freeze dealer today!

Searchers Set 2 Traps to Capture Trunk Murderess

'TIGER WOMAN' TO TRY TO SEE MATE, BELIEF

Hospital Where Husband Stays Under Guard; All Reports of Capture Unfounded.

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES — Authorities set two traps today in the growing belief that Winnie Ruth Judd managed to make her way from Arizona to Los Angeles over the same route she took eight years ago with two trunkloads of dismembered bodies.

Both traps were arranged to spring on the "Tiger Woman" should she attempt to see her husband, Dr. William C. Judd, who has issued public appeals for her to contact him or surrender and go back to the Phoenix Insane asylum from which she escaped Tuesday night.

A squad of police was in hiding at Dr. Judd's home in Santa Monica on the seaside 10 miles from here.

He is not there but is in the Sawtell Veterans hospital, and there a squad of deputy sheriffs was patrolling the grounds along with the regular government guards. Undersheriff A. C. Jewell believed the fiendish killer of her two best women friends might try to see her husband at the hospital as she had said she would.

Dr. Judd returned to the hospital last night after spending the day with his sister, Miss Caroline Judd, a Santa Monica school teacher. He said he had no idea where his wife might be, but hoped she would surrender "for her own good." His sister believed Mrs. Judd fled to Mexico, where her husband was once a doctor in a mining camp, and where she has many friends.

Meanwhile, scores of police details were kept busy investigating reports from throughout the west that the fugitive murderess had been seen. None had been confirmed.

Reports of Naval Battle In Baltic Sea Draw Denial

COPENHAGEN — (AP) — Reports from Seiero island that inhabitants there saw a naval battle involving planes and warships were received in Copenhagen this afternoon but the ministry of marine denied there was any such action in the area.

The ministry said it had telephoned coast guard stations in the vicinity and heard nothing had been seen, but a lone airplane which had passed during the afternoon.

Advices from Seiero island had said that inhabitants reported a naval battle had begun off the coast at about 1 p. m. (7 a. m. EST.)

They said they heard heavy cannonading and saw a number of warships, mostly hidden behind clouds of smoke, and about a dozen warplanes.

The battle was reported continuing an hour later.

(Seiero island is in the Cattegat, the narrow bottleneck between Denmark and Sweden linking the North and Baltic seas.)

Swedish telegraph agency reports said activity of the German fleet in Baltic waters had increased in the past few days.

Up and Down THE STREET

A one paragraph story in The News-Journal this week, datelined Spokane, Wash., and announcing the publication of Dr. Franic Haines, Gonzaga university professor's first book, "Red Eagle; Chief Joseph and His People," in which he describes the development of the west, was studied with no little interest by John H. Miller, 371 West Fifth street. It was while Miller was a tailor in Idaho in 1890 that he made a vest for the famed Indian chief who he said had a chest measurement of 72 inches — the largest he has ever seen.

Farmers and fruit growers who have complained that they can't even give apples away this year, have an answer in the Mansfield Service League. The women of this group, who were given national recognition recently on Kate Smith's radio broadcast, will go to the country and gather up apples—even glad to get wind-falls that are good—and any other surplus vegetables. Later they will distribute them to needy families who are not on relief and therefore do not receive fruit and vegetables as surplus commodities. Those willing to contribute can reach the League by calling Mrs. R. R. Black, Canal 1798 or Mrs. Sherman Glessner, Canal 3215.

Sheriff E. P. Long had a birthday today—he wouldn't say which one—and it gave jokesters their annual chance to send him funny cards. Instead of a signature, most of the cards merely had a series of question marks on them or a "guess who." The sheriff guessed that one of them, addressed to the "high sheriff of Richland county," came from one of his deputies. But he didn't think it was worth an investigation.

DIES AT AGE 72

Jasper Pollock, Lexington, Was Father of 4 Mansfielders.

Jasper Pollock, 72, father of four Mansfield women, died at his home in Lexington last night after an illness of four months.

Born near Butler, Aug. 15, 1867, he had spent his entire life in this county. He made his home in Lexington for the past 41 years.

Surviving are his wife, four daughters, Mrs. A. Treisch, Mrs. Paul Tucker, Miss Nina Pollock, and Mrs. Steral Mishey, all of Mansfield; three sons, Earl Pollock of Lexington, Charles of Ontario, and Rollin of Rochester, N. Y., and 13 grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Snyder funeral home at Lexington where services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday with Rev. O. G. Misamore, former pastor of the Lexington Congregational church, officiating. Burial will be in Little Washington cemetery.

WHERE'S PROFIT?

Junk Dealer Buy Own Stolen Property At Auction.

The auctioneer thought so too—until the dealer discovered he had purchased his own property, stolen from his shop several months previously.

MAPS FIGHT TO OUST GREENLUN

Highway Head Says Affidavits Not Unfair; Points to Other Complaints.

ASHLAND—State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler said today he would file permanent removal charges against Robert S. Greenlun, suspended highway employe, despite the fact that charges of criminal libel have been filed against the two men who signed the affidavits against Greenlun.

Greenlun, a Democrat and a civil service employe, was suspended for 30 days on affidavits signed by Mark M. Lutz, justice of the peace, and Walter R. Petchler, constable, both of Brunswick. The two men were indicted for criminal libel after an Ashland, county grand jury made an investigation and reported the affidavits "malicious and untrue."

Beightler, however, said today that he had three other affidavits to Greenlun's unfitness for the position of highway route marking superintendent and that furthermore, he would not admit the affidavits of the two indicted men were "unfair."

Greenlun is credited with breaking up a speed trap at Brunswick in which Petchler made arrests and the cases were heard before Lutz. On their affidavits Greenlun was suspended by Beightler on Oct. 7 for 30 days.

Hearing for both Brunswick officials has been set for Nov. 4 in common pleas court.

GAS EXPLODES

U. S. Ship Damaged In Blast; Five Men Reported Injured.

NORFOLK, Va.—(UP)—A quantity of gasoline exploded aboard the U. S. Geodetic Survey boat Mikawe today as the ship was loading fuel at a Norfolk dock. First reports said five men were injured, at least one critically.

The explosion damaged the ship severely. Cause of the blast was unknown.

SLATE MANSLAUGHTER, DRUG CASES FOR GRAND JURY SESSION

Cases involving manslaughter and narcotic drug charges against two men head a docket of 26 cases before the county grand jury when it convenes Monday morning for the September court term.

The jurors also will hear 11 secret cases, more than Prosecutor G. W. Marriott has presented to a county grand jury at any single session in recent months. Most of them are on non-support counts.

The manslaughter charge is against Bernard Richardson, New York City, held in connection with the death of Mrs. Ethel Goon, Mansfield, in a traffic accident Sept. 30 in East Mansfield. The driver of one of the three cars involved in the crash, is in the county jail under $3,000 bond.

Also held in jail is Oscar Hughes, Toledo, cited recently in municipal court here for possessing marijuana.

The 26 cases are expected to keep the jury in session two days. More than 60 witnesses had been subpoenaed today to appear before the jury.

Other defendants and the charges against them are:

C. L. Patten, operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent; Marie Keller and Albert Walker, cutting with intent to wound, Gilbert McElroy, assault with intent to rob; Martin Xander, William Dysinger, Arthur Dysinger, and Donald Reger, breaking and entering, R. H. Scott, defrauding an inn keeper; Truman Thomas, Willard Karchner, Glenn Gatchel, and Robert Ryan, non-support.

HEAR ARMY MAN

County Reserve Officers to Attend 'School' Nov. 7.

Major W. H. O'Mohundro, Toledo, will address the Richland County Reserve Officers corps, at a meeting Tuesday, Nov. 7 at the American Legion home.

Major O'Mohundro, infantry officer, will discuss "The Philippines" at the seventh school session for the Reserve officers, called by Major David S. Doggett, executive officer of the Toledo military district.

The speaker will explain plans for future schools and will meet, by appointment, the men of Mansfield and the county, who have applied by letter for Reserve commissions.

Members of the Mansfield chapter, National Aeronautic association, have been invited to attend the school which is open to the public.

DIES AT HOME

Mrs. Allie Baker Suffers Heart Attack Near Chesterville.

FREDERICKTOWN — Mrs. Allie Baker, 64, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at her home, three miles south of Chesterville, Thursday morning.

Survivors are her husband, William Baker, two sisters, Mrs. Mabel Tredmore, of Stowe, and Mrs. Carrie Dove, residing in Michigan.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Chesterville, with Rev. W. L. Cook officiating. Burial will be in Mapel Grove cemetery.

MANSFIELD MAN DIES AT AGE 62

Leeroy Shafer Succumbs After Brief Illness; Funeral Monday.

Leeroy Shafer, 62, of 110 South Foster street, died early today at General hospital following a brief illness.

Born Nov. 22, 1876 in Springfield township, Mr. Shafer spent his entire life in this community. Surviving are his wife, Laura Hart Shafer; a son, Chester L. at home, a sister, Mrs. Jennie Yost of Pennlaird, Va. and three brothers, Butler B. and Edward C. of Springfield township, and Frank R. of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Monday at the Finefrock funeral home with Rev. R. L. Foulke, pastor of the Central Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in Ontario cemetery. The body will be removed to the family home tonight where friends may call until Monday noon.

CLOTHES TAKEN FROM COUPLE FUMES KILLED

Deaths Lead to New Demands for State Supervision of Private Institutions.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI — A vital need for rigid state supervision of rest-homes was expressed today by Coroner Frank M. Coppock, jr., as he opened an inquest into the asphyxiation of two women found stripped of clothing and their wrists bound at a private institution here.

Coroner Coppock deplored conditions under which he said Mrs. Agnes Herman, 65, of Hamilton, O., and Mrs. Irene Carter, 73, died from fumes of an oil heater in a small unfurnished room under a garage.

"We intend to bring conditions in rest homes, whatever they may be, right out into the open. I have asked the prosecutor to be present at the inquest," Coppock said. 'These women were unclothed. These institutions should be under some supervision."

The coroner said representatives of the state fire marshal's office and the state industrial relations department have conducted investigations and would testify.

Also to take the witness stand will be Mrs. Pauline Stiegler, operator of the home, who said "all I ask you to do is come out and talk to my patients." She was sorry "this regrettable thing" happened but defended her treatment of the two victims who she said "would have harmed themselves."

"We did not give them beds because they might use them or the springs to destroy themselves," she said. "If their hands had not been tied they might have gouged their eyes out. I have been kind to my patients."

But charged Dr. Coppock, "I cannot conceive of such conditions being necessary or tolerated."

The first move toward supervision of rest-homes was taken some time ago by State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood, meeting with George Strain, state director of industrial relations and others.

Then Strain charged there were many "rest home evils" which the state hoped to curb, including the housing of persons in "fire traps" and not giving sufficient provisions for the amount of money paid for patients' maintenance.

GETS NEW POST

Grant Becomes Director of Westinghouse Research.

Appointment of W. W. Grant as director of marketing research at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant was announced today by Frank R. Kohnstamm, sales manager of the merchandising division.

The position is a newly created one and Grant will devote his attention to market analysis, a study of consumer preferences, and distribution and sales research problems.

Kohnstamm said creation of the post was an illustration of the importance of research in marketing as well as in engineering, production, and economic research. Grant formerly was in the Westinghouse new products division.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Reno's Divorce Industry Takes Sharp Drop Since Its 5,745 Cases In 1931

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

RENO—There has been a decline in the divorce industry in Reno since the banner year of 1931, when Nevada met a challenge from Arkansas by reducing from three months to six weeks the period required for the establishment of a legal residence. Nevada pioneered the field under an old law requiring a residence of six months, and was doing a fine business, rich in economic butter-fat when the best minds of the hotel trade, retail, business and the legislature decided that a reduction to three months would increase the volume without reducing to an injurious degree the quality of the clientele.

Arkansas then designed a stock-model decree and, under a three-months law adopted for the purpose, attempted to divert from Nevada the business from the Mississippi valley and the east with the benefit of a freight differential, as you might say.

This divorce is almost entirely interstate commerce, and if Arkansas had been a private corporation the federal government might have found a law somewhere to protect Nevada's rights. However, no such relief could be hoped for, so Nevada largely abandoned the quality trade, as such, and adopted a six-weeks law embodying the business principle of the five-and-ten, which is small profits but many of them.

Rich people as well as the poor shop at the five-and-ten, so Nevada would still get their business, though in smaller units, because they naturally would spend much less in six weeks than they had spent in six months or three.

Moreover, Nevada decrees were quality decrees with a worldwide reputation. They had been tested in many courts, and many repeaters in Reno provided evidence that Nevada divorces were not only stylish but serviceable.

The prestige of these writs is so high that Reno scoffs airily at a current attempt by her neighbor Idaho to intrude in the field with a six-weeks law and a campaign to divert business to Sun Valley.

When the minimum requirement was six months of residence, and even after it had been reduced to three, the divorce clientele bought many expensive automobiles in Reno, and the retail merchants carried stocks of the most expensive goods, particularly women's wear. This demand for new cars has almost vanished under the present law, and, of course, the customers find it no problem to carry a program of stylish gear to see them through six weeks without local replacements.

The hotels, however, are doing better than ever, because Nevada, and particularly Reno, have recently discovered another profitable specialty in quick-and-easy marriage for Californians unwilling to wait three days, as required by the law against gin weddings, or to comply with new blood-test regulations. There are no statistics to indicate which law the Californians are particularly determined to avoid in coming to Reno for marriage.

Unless they drink extremely high-octane gin in California they would cool out or pass out on the long trip to Reno, but, nevertheless, the day after this law took effect there was a queue of Californians in the throes of the divine delurium extending from the courthouse door a half block to the corner and another half block down that street. The blood-test law caused another rise in the marriage traffic, and together they have raised the score of marriage far above that of divorce.

The Riverside hotel, the confluence of both streams, is crowded with guests drawn here on conflicting missions. Divorcing ladies, biding their time until judgment day in the courthouse across the street, crunch rice underfoot as they enter the lobby and may be permitted wry thoughts as they enter the elevators with other ladies wearing gardenias, the badge of the bride. However, I observed no wry glances, and it would seem, from conversations with divorce lawyers, that the divorcing ladies do not feel wry about marriage. Most of them intend to try again.

Because it takes only a matter of minutes for a marriage, and most of the trade is out and gone back to California next morning, a huge turnover is required to yield a decent profit. The lawyers are completely short-circuited and can only hope that these marriages are ill-advised, in which case, of course, they would be only too glad to serve.

In Reno, with a population of 20,000, there were 7,824 marriages last year and only 2,375 divorces—an appalling decline from the boom divorce business, 5,745, in 1931. This year in September the marriage rate increased 41 per cent, and the divorce traffic just held steady at the rate of 1938—2,375 for the year—the lowest since Reno went into quantity production.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The tinny piano gives laboriously of Redwing, my Pretty Redwing, and in the darkened nickelodeon the flickering, jumping figures prance about the screen. Through pie-throwing, wild Keystone Kop chase, or tender romance, the tinny piano gives. . . .

"Hollywood Cavalcade," the new movie about movie-making history, has many scenes and references to stir memories in picture fans of an earlier day, but none more potent than that tinny piano giving, giving, giving while the slapstick rolled.

The picture didn't cover—musically, that is—that later period when studios sent out, with each picture, a thematic score for the guidance of the pianist, who had in most instances by then become an organist, if not a full-sized orchestra. And the film, concluding at the dawn of the talkie-sound era, naturally didn't go on to the great development in screen music as it is today.

The other day I dropped in on the set of "Four Wives," and saw Jeffrey Lynn conducting a full symphony orchestra for the camera. The composition at hand was that unfinished piece which John Garfield (in "Four Daughters") left widow Priscilla Lane as his one material legacy. In the new story Lynn has finished Garfield's work—given it a beginning and an end—and is presenting it to wife Priscilla.

Quite a few films lately have presented full symphonies: "100 Men and a Girl," "The Star-Maker," notable among them. But practically all pictures, whether we see the musicians on screen or only hear them which is better, are giving us symphonic scores—scores with meanings specific to those pictures.

It's a long jump from Redwing, my Pretty Redwing to the skillfully integrated music of the screen today, a jump which hurdled successfully that dread, happily past era of the movie theme song.

It seems to me more balance has been achieved, that fewer scores now overshadow the screens' action, that more are—as they should be—mere background intensifiers of mood, enhancing without intruding upon the drama or comedy at hand. The still memorable "The Informer" had a musical score that almost told the story in itself but never infringed upon that story. The music in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" was one of the redeeming features of that noble experiment in Shakespeare, and Werner Janssen's score for "Blockade" atoned for much that was lacking dramatically.

There's a current score worth noting, too, for its high degree of success in the objective of every good score, to enhance without intruding. You'll hear it in "Elizabeth and Essex," and it was written by Erich Wolfgang Korngold. Or you may see the picture and not hear it at all, not consciously, which is the test of a good score. Yet, if you listen, you will be aware that every note of music is serving a thematic purpose, subtly aiding the players in their task of creating illusions for their audience.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins Married Fifty Years

Shortly after their marriage at Urbana 50 years ago today, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Hawkins, 122 Lexington avenue, came to Mansfield to make their home. Since living here Mr. Hawkins, who is now past 80, has been employed as salesman for the Nichlos and Shepherd and Aultman-Taylor companies. He now travels for the Huber company of Marion.

They are the parents of eight children, five now living. They are Marion, Mrs. W. P. (Katherine) Winbigler, Mrs. John (Edna) McGale, Mrs. Charles B (Lillian) Wigton, and Joseph. Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins also have nine grandchildren. She was Miss Viola Pullins of Urbana before her marriage Oct. 27, 1889.

Former Ontario People Plan Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Clark, who formerly lived near Ontario, and attended the Community church there, are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary Sunday at their home near Caledonia. Their five children, Mrs. N. A. Milligan and Mrs Edward G. Fisher, both of Mansfield, Mrs. Ernest L. Weaver and Mrs. W. S. Seaburn, both of Marion, and Lewis Clark, Moral, expect to be in Caledonia for an evening family dinner. Open house will be observed during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark have 19 grandchildren and four great grandchildren. They were married in Scioto county, and Mr. Clark had been a farmer near Ontario until 15 years ago.

Activities of Social Clubs

Guests of L'Amici club yesterday were Mrs. Rebecca Sweval and Mrs. Ralph Maker. Mrs. Harold White, Cline avenue, was hostess for the two tables of cards, and Mrs. Patsy LaSusa and Mrs. Henry Chicolani won the prizes. Luncheon was served amid Halloween appointments. The next meeting will be Nov. 9 at the home of Mrs. Chicolani, Bell avenue.

Revelers club members were the guests of Mrs. Philip Wentz, Spring street, yesterday when Mrs. John Wentz was elected president, and Mrs. Robert Dinger was named secretary. The afternoon was spent socially by the members and one guest, Mrs. Fred G. Dinger.

The luncheon was served at a table decorated with pompons and orange and black appointments. Mrs. Sam Brennem, West Fifth street, will entertain Nov 9.

Michigan prizes were won by Mrs. Harold Hedges. Mrs. May Bookman, Mrs. Mollie Magee and Mrs. Philip Kipp Wednesday when Mrs. Edward Tinkey, Boland road, entertained. Pompons and Halloween appointments decorated the luncheon table.

There were two guests, Mrs Henry Barr and Mrs. Frank Wise, and they both received gifts Mrs Adam Schmidt Bowman street, will entertain Nov. 8

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, October 28.

Mixed influences, in the terms of astrological science, prevail on this day. There are portents of swift and sudden actions rather ruthless and rash in their precipitance. These may exact regrets and penalties, in which superiors, employers or others in authority may be involved. However, offsetting this adverse prospect, and as a boon to conflicting circumstances, the mind will be found particularly shrewd and capable to cope with difficulties Sagacity and subtlety may overcome difficulties

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which some sudden and ruthless events may challenge all their native shrewdness, cleverness and subtlety, with which this year finds them generously endowed Cross purposes with employers, superiors or those in authority may challenge the discreet exercise of deep vision, sagacity and intuitive perception, the misuse of which may precipitate sorrow and defeat.

A child born on this day, while being forceful, passionate and impetuous with certain doubtful and peculiar traits may have shrewdness craft and subtlety to help it "worm out" of self-invited difficulties

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I made safety just in time, for the policeman whose hand I had seen going to his holster had drawn a revolver and fired at me with almost incredible swiftness And there was an incredible lack of sound about the shot, too, only a slight "ping" which could have been heard only a few feet away.

"No!" Dicky shouted fiercely, but the officer on either side of him tightened the grip they already had on his arms.

"Another crack like that out of you, big boy, one of the policemen said savagely, "and it'll be the last yelp you'll ever give."

"And as for you, wise dame," the other man addressed me, "you take those chains down this instant Otherwise, you're going to see your man hanging across that chain. and he won't be a pretty sight"

"All right, Ricky," I sobbed, again trifling the "R" and ignoring the officer's' ultimatum. 'I'll take them down."

I hoped he would understand the message contained in the "Ricky," that I would still keep the bars up. For through the crack of the door I had seen not only the head of Thompson, the guard who had accompanied me to the hotel, but those of two other stocky guards of my father's, rising stealthily from the stairway at the side of the elevator

With my heart literally in my mouth, I came to the front of the door again. Putting up my hands, I pretended to fumble with the chain. I made my hands shake, and one officer, with an oath, grabbed at my hand as if to force it to obedience.

And then, oh! blesed sense of relief, a business-like voice behind them, Thompson's, said crisply:

"Three of us are covering you, laddies Don't make us nervous. Our trigger fingers might slip if you got funny. Stick 'em up, and leave your gats just where they are"

Thompson s two aids, with voices kept almost to whispers, were efficiency itself as they forced the uniformed gangsters down the corridor, well away from our door, and lined them up while Thompson searched them thoroughly, taking away a veritable arsenal from each. Then Thompson spoke to me.

"Is there a room in there to which you can go and lock the door. Mrs. Graham?"

"Yes, there is," I said.

"Then will you please take off those night chains, and will you and Mr. Graham go into the other room and lock the door? We'll bring these birds into the apartment until we find out what's going on. No use letting the whole hotel in on it. Am I right in thinking there's nobody but you folks on this floor?"

"Yes" I could not have uttered another word if my life had been at stake.

"That's fine. We'll have everything to ourselves."

"Look here, Graham!" The "policeman" who had threatened me spoke to Dicky with sinister significance. "Are you going to let these fellows do this to us when you know it was all a joke? You'll be sorry if you let us in for anything."

Thompson jerked his arm sharply.

"Shut up, you'" he said. "You're talking out of turn. We'll listen to you when we get you inside of the apartment. But if this is your idea of a joke, with that array of rods there—"

I was about to tell them that one of the guns had been fired at me when, to my amazed horror, I saw Dicky's face first go white, then red, and heard him say in strained, raucous tones:

"But I can asure you, gentlemen, it is all a joke."

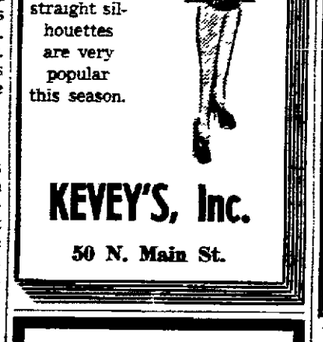
"The Authority on Authorities"

EVERYBODY BRILLIANT

ONLY ONCE in a blue moon does a deal come along which offers a chance for all four players to do some fine bidding. Ordinarily anything of particular merit during the auction is by either just one member of the foursome, or by the two ends of a pair It is truly a delight to find everybody concerned doing something brilliantly correct.



(Dealer, North. East-West vulnerable)

Four real experts were engaged in the bidding of this deal in a recent New York rubber game. North started by calling 3-Spades —the limit of what his hand really justified—in an effort to shut out his probably strong opponents.

East rose to the occasion with a bid of 3-No Trumps, knowing full well that his partner would understand that he was doing this under the stress of the situation and that his hand was only fairly strong, but with solid spade stoppers and honor representation elsewhere.

After South passed, West bid 4-Hearts, which passed around to South, who endeavored to sacrifice at 4-Spades. This would have been a profitable save if left in, but West overcalled with 5-Hearts, which could not be beaten and which produced an overtrick after North led the spade Q.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What is your idea of the best bidding on this deal?

Masquerade Parties, Marriage, Late October Events

—News-Journal Photos.

Halloween is surely on its way as the above photographs snapped at two different parties this week show. Concealed behind the masks in the picture at the left are Miss Myrta Levering, Miss Edith Swaidner and Miss Betty Davis, reading from left to right. The gentleman holding the apple is Emmett Izer, teacher of the Christian church class which was having a party. The picture at right above was taken while members of the Jolly Times club were having a party. They are (reading from left to right) Mrs. Joe Stone, Miss Elizabeth Horning, Mrs. Tony Brucato, Mrs. Dewitt Powers and Mrs. Clark Stutz.

MANSFIELD BRIDES FETED AT SHOWERS

Mrs. Ovid Epps Entertained In Ashland; Friends of Mrs. Russell Vasilovic Honor Her With Function Last Night.

TWO MANSFIELD BRIDES were guests of honor last night at showers given by their friends. The former Miss Margaret Copland, who was married to Ovid Epps earlier this month, was feted by Mrs. Albert Bigler, Ashland, and Mrs. Robert Harrison, Mansfield. Mrs. Russell Vasilovic, who was Miss Betty Schwier before her spring marriage, was likewise entertained by Miss Frances Proto, Mrs. Katherine Oliver, Misss Lillian Sandel and Mrs. Mary Nail.

The first party was given in Ashland, and the evening was spent socially and in games. Prizes were won by Miss Ann Mowry, Mrs. John Eberhart and Mrs. Jay Iceman. Mrs. Epps was given directions which led her to a shower of gifts. Fiesta appointments were used when luncheon was served. The hostesses presented the guest of honor with a blanket.

The party for Mrs. Vasilovic was held at the Proto home, 274 East Second street, and the evening was spent in playing cootie and other games at six tables. Prizes were won by Miss Martha Davis, the honoree, and Mrs. Don Claypool. The other two winners gave the bride their awards. A shower of miscellaneous gifts was presented in a large basket decorated with pink and blue paper, and the hostesses gave the guest of honor a blanket.

Luncheon was served to the 24 guests at small tables set with pink and blue appointments. Candles, a wedding cake, and cut flowers completed the decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Vasilovic are making their home on East Second street.

CANCELS DATE

Miss Ruth Isabel Seabury, Educational Secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Boston, who was to speak at the First Congregational church Monday night, Oct. 30, under the auspices of the Women's Association has canceled her appearance here because of an unexpected call to New York, Miss Ruth West, young people's secretary at the church, announced today.

St. Peter's Alumni Plan Holiday Dance

Arrangements for a dance to be given by the St. Peter's Alumni association were announced today by Ralph Bishop, president and chairman for the affair. It will be held Oct. 30 at Coolridge Country club. Raymond Baum and Billy Michaels head the ticket committee.

Robert McNamara, John Bishop and Robert Fisher are on the refreshment committee, and Robert Walter, Walt Perl and Edward McNamara are in charge of entertainment. The decorations committee includes Robert Dalton, Katheryn Pfeifer, Anne Schmidt, Jeanne Scott, Mildred Dalton, Loretta Fink, Ann Moritz, Angus Wehinger and Dorothy Scott.

Church Circle Conducts Meeting At Mrs. Coles

A dessert-luncheon was an event of yesterday for members of Circle Two of the Park Avenue Baptist church at the home of Mrs. D. C. Cole, 228 Vennum avenue. There were 16 members and three guests present for the meeting.

Mrs. George Vawter was in charge of devotions, and Mrs. Charles Swisher conducted the business. Mrs. Hayes M. Braker then read a letter from a missionary of the church. Mrs. Vawter will have a luncheon meeting at her home on Trimble road at 1:30 p. m. on Nov. 30.

Women's Aid To Have December Family Party

Mrs. G. A. Royce and Mrs. C. L. Hatmaker were welcomed into membership in the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday by Mrs. E. W. High, president, when Mrs. Kenneth Garn, 67 Heineman boulevard entertained. The associate hostesses were Mrs. M. F. Matz and Mrs. H. F. Emerson.

Plans were made by the 20 present to have a family party Dec. 1 at the North Lake Park pavilion. Mrs. A. E. Swain won the contest prize. Refreshments were served at small tables decorated with Halloween appointments. The next meeting will be Nov. 30 with Mrs. C. R. Montgomery, 508 Park avenue west.

Dues Paying Party At First Church Thursday

There were 50 members of the Home and Foreign Missionary societies of the First Methodist church present yesterday at the dues paying party held in the church parlors. Luncheon was served at long tables decorated with chrysanthemums and lighted with white tapers. Mrs. Anna Rice and Mrs. Ellis Lincoln conducted the ritualistic service.

Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Sidney Palmer, Mrs. William Gugler, Mrs. C. P. Howe, and Mrs. W. C. Mansfield. Mrs. Rice poured. The regular monthly meeting of the societies will be held next Thursday.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

THERE'S no doubt about it, our Mansfield collegians do get ahead. . . . And each day the mail or phone brings in more news of their achievements. . . . David Lautsbaugh has just been pledged to Kappa Psi fraternity at Ohio Northern university at Ada—he's studying pharmacy and is a member of the freshman class. . . . David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Lautsbaugh.

Down in the southern part of the state four Mansfielders are attending the University of Dayton . . . Robert B. Jurgens, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jurgens, and Martin Moritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moritz, are juniors in the department of business administration . . . Harold Raybould (his parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Raybould, sr.) is a freshman at the university, and he's studying chemical engineering. . . . Another student in this same course is Harold J. Reindl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Reindl. He's a sophomore.

Mr. and Mrs. William Newman of Hawkinsville, Ga., who have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Konetschne for the past two weeks, are now vacationing in London. . . . And by the way, Mr. and Mrs. Newman are the parents of Bob, Slim and Hank, the Georgia Crackers, who broadcast over WHKC in Columbus.

STEVE OLIN, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Olin, includes a little bit of everything along with his studies a DePauw university in Greencastle, Ind. . . . He was recently elected to the junior class committee . . . is a member of Alpha Tau Omega and Xi Xi Xi fraternities . . . and plays on both the football and baseball teams.

These are busy days for Jean Sowers too—for besides the many activities of her senior year at Otterbein college, she's president of Rho Kappa Delta sorority. . . . And since the rushing program has just begun on that campus the responsibility of parties, teas and bidding rests primarily on her shoulders. . . . So Jean (who's the daughter of C. A. Sowers of R. D. 2 Bellville) will probably be most happy when the sorority's pledges are announced on Nov. 3.

MEMBERS of the Sappho club had a program on the American Indian this week—and thereon hangs a rather amusing tale. . . . Mrs. C. E. Reese arranged to sing two vocal solos and Mrs. J. H. Bristor planned to play two piano selections but they didn't discuss their numbers before the program, so Mrs. Reese sang "From An Indian Village"—and Mrs. Bristor later played the same piece!

It hardly seems that a week passes by without news of another engagement in town. . . . Harriet Roth is pleased as punch with the pretty diamond Elmer Zook gave her recently.

Harrison Lowrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Lowrey, is completing his senior year at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Mich., now—and he has just been elected to membership in Druids, a men's senior honorary society in the literary college.

Some of our more fortunate residents are still vacationing. . . . Mr. and Mrs. John L. Conners are staying at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall in Atlantic City, N. J., while enjoying the sunshine and ocean breezes there now. . . . Another visitor in the east is Mrs. H. F. MacGraith, who's at the Hotel Belmont Plaza during her sojourn in New York City.

FETE MISS M'NAMARA AT EVENING PARTY

Round the World Theme Carried Out By Three Hostesses; Contests, Scavenger Hunt Features of Entertainment.

AN UNUSUAL PARTY here was given last night by Mrs. Douglas Kinton, Mrs. Edmund L. Malone and Miss Rita Newcomer in honor of Miss Alice McNamara, bride-elect of Andrew Mott. The three hostesses carried a "round the world" theme in decorations, gifts and entertainment.

Members of the M. M. M. Bridge club were the guests who first gathered at the home of Mrs. Kinton on South Mulberry street where contests were held and Miss Helen Kuneman won the prize which she gave to the guest of honor. The group then departed for a scavenger hunt.

The winners of the hunt were Mrs. Dave Mossberg, Mrs. Ray Hecht and Miss McNamara. The other two winners also gave their prizes to the honoree. When the group returned to Miss Newcomer's home on Dawson avenue Miss McNamara was presented with tiny rhymed notes which directed her to a shower of gifts, each of which was representative of a different country.

The guests next went to Mrs. Malone's home on Highland avenue for refreshments. The hostess had her table decorated with dolls and carts representative of a half dozen different countries all arranged on a blue reflector mirror, and each place was marked with an individual favor made in the United States. The hostesses presented Miss McNamara, who will be married Nov. 4, with a set of dishes.

HAS PARTY.

Donald Currens, who was four years old yesterday, was guest of honor at a party given by his aunt, Mrs. Peter J. Ludwig, 76 East First street. There were ten children present, and a Halloween scheme was used for decoration. Refreshments were served following the games. Donald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archer D. Currens, North Mulberry street.

Dessert Served When Beta Chapter Gathers

The dessert-bridge which members of Beta chapter of Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority gave Wednesday evening was a guest party at the home of Miss Winifred VanDerau, 895 South Andover road. Mrs. Clara Bell and Mrs. Charles McMullen were associate hostesses.

Mexican colors decorated the small tables when dessert was served, and later the group played bridge. Miss Doris Marshall and Mrs. Norman Leonard, both guests, won the prizes. Other guests at the affair included: Mrs. Fred Pattridge, Mrs. Dudley Thomas, Mrs. Paul Neidhart, Mrs. Lyle Rinehart and Mrs. E. N. Orth.

Guests Present At Buena Vista Meeting

Members of the Buena Vista club were the guests of Mrs. Gaylord Van Tilburg, Ashland road, yesterday. There were 14 members present, and the guests were Mrs. LaVerne Thrush and daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Balliett, Mrs. John Roberts and daughter, Mrs. Frank Swoveland and Mrs. D. T. Hout.

The business meeting was in charge of Mrs. L. M. Hout, and the contests were won by Mrs. Ray Hout, Mrs. Gerald Dudley, Mrs. Josephine Boals and Mrs. L. F. Hout. The next meeting will be Nov. 30 with Mrs. Eldon Harper, East Mansfield.

PLAN FUTURE.

Mrs. Ethel Constance presided at a meeting of the Women's Relief corps, McLaughlin Post No. 26 Wednesday evening in Memorial building. The group then decided to give an American flag to West Fifth street school and three of the Woodville school. The members also accepted an invitation of the American Legion to attend the patriotic religious service at the First Lutheran church on Nov. 5. On Nov. 8, Mrs. Helen Cameron of Oberlin will inspect the local corps. Plans were formulated for a series of socials to be held during the winter months.

Tri-Gam Sorority Members Have Halloween Meeting

MEMBERS of Delta chapter of Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority entertained Beta, Gamma and Epsilon chapters of that group with a Halloween party at the Colonial Guest House on the Wooster road yesterday evening. Mrs. Russell Doehla was in charge of arrangements for the affair and awarded a prize for the best costume to Miss Eileen Logan.

Miss Vivian Miller conducted a short business session, at which time Miss Jane Sowash appointed committee chairmen to assist her with the sorority's annual Christmas formal. Mrs. James Courtney will head the ticket committee, and Miss Marianne Springer will have charge of the programs. Miss Bettie Myers will plan decorations at the Mansfield-Leland hotel ball room, where the dance is being held, while Mrs. Madge Yoheim of Ashland and her committee will select the orchestra.

Mrs. Jack McKnight and Mrs. Clare Bell were elected as representatives to the Dental Clinic. Miss Eleanor Clingan and Miss Logan were chosen to work on the sorority scrapbook.

Mrs. Joseph Kemp won a contest prize, and Miss Springer was recipient of a high score award in the bridge games, which were played at six tables. Later luncheon, in keeping with the theme of Halloween, was served at the small tables.

On Nov. 16 members of Epsilon chapter will entertain the sorority in Ashland, when Miss Naomi Plank of that city will make the arrangements.

KIWANIANS ENTERTAIN.

Ralph Hull, Zanesville, entertained with tricks of magic last night when members of the Kiwanis club entertained their wives at a dinner meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. John Pierce was toastmaster, and William Althouse was program chairman. Games were played during the rest of the evening.
